A SONG OF EARLY AUTUMN

When heavy and hollow the robin's whistle,
And shadows are deep in the heat of noon;
When the air is white with the down o' the thistle,
And the sky is red with the harvest moon.

(Richard Watson Gilder)

Winter's Just Around Corner

Crisp Autumn Brings Joy—And Host of Seasonal Jobs

By MARGUERITE MILLER

For centuries, it seems, the flush of autumn on Nature's cheek has prompted a flood of rapturous literature.

The prose writer, James Buckam, called the season, "Winter masquerading in Nature's holiday robe." Continuing in his praise, he wrote: "Now the chestnuts wear their prickly coats open in front; the beechnuts pop from their husks like triangular bullets and clean-skinned walnuts peep from their blackened envelopes."

But it doesn't take a poet to appreciate the most colorful time of the year. In fact, even the "soulless" fellow, who at the very mention of fall, conjures up visions of great heaps of dead leaves, the spouting to clean and storm windows to hang, never misses a nice week end "to get out in the country."

Generally, the big jobs are started around the Christmas season because of the unforseen interruptions — known otherwise as the recreational releases of fishing, hunting, walnut gathering and anything else you can do on a nice October Sunday afteroon.

Housewives, who as only housewives know, gather more work for each season of the year, are just about finishing the seemingly endless task of preserving and canning for the family's winter larder

Now they find there's more facing them — blankets to bring out of summer storage, the usual fall cleaning to do, and the garden flowers to care for.

After this is all over, everyone's about ready for that philosophical attitude of Poet Gilder—

"So let the churn rattle, see well to the cattle,
And pile the wood by the barnyard gate."

While this "season of mists and mellow fruitfulness" is in swing, it's timely to heed some tips on getting the flower beds ready for their winter hibernation. Mrs. W. W. Workman of Beal road does her fall gardening in the same, systematic way as her spring work.

Take up geraniums, she advises, and hang them up in a cool basement. Then, in February, be sure to pot the plants and cut off the old tops to three to four inches. Set in a light place and keep the plants watered. Unless the plants are potted in late winter they will die.

The smaller geraniums may be potted now to bloom inside the house during the winter.

It's also time to take up little American Shamrock bulbs and dry them for winter. Right now, Mrs. Workman is cleaning out her dead annuals from the flower beds and planting tulip bulbs for early blooming next spring.

Grass should be mowed to a two-inch length to go into the winter and leaves should be raked from the grass or the growth will be damaged

Despite the added work the season brings, it is impossible not to appreciate the exhilarating effect the crisp, frosty mornings of fall have both physically and mentally.

The swelter of the dog-days is over. Fresh coffee begins to give off that savory aroma in the mornings. The cook can hide the recipes for those cold, shivery dishes and begin to prepare the succulent roasts and pies again.

The cold blast that greets you as you open the door every morning is simply Nature's way of stirring up the circulation for the long winter siege, of getting you in the mood for football games and hotdogs, cider and doughnuts and roasting marshmallows in the fireplace surrounded by a lot of good chatter and friends.

October's "swan song" was probably no better put than by Bliss Carman:

"And there October passes
In gorgeous livery—
In purple ash, and crimson oak,
And golden tulip tree.

And when the winds of winter
Their bugle blasts begin,
The snowy hosts of heaven arrive,
And pitch their tents therein."

Air Hunt Fails To Locate Boat

SEATTLE—(AP)— A coast guard plane Saturday failed to find any trace of a barge and its five-man crew which reported the craft was sinking late Friday night in the stormy Gulf of Alaska.

The 105-foot, self-propelled Starstone had messaged desperately for help shortly before midnight. There has been no message since. Winds of 40 miles an hour were reported.

$33,000,000 Reservoir Taking Form

Giant Shovels Work To Check Flood Loss

SALTSBURG, Pa. — (AP) — The banging of hammers and the crunch of giant shovels these fall days signal the building of a $33,000,000 reservoir as a vital link in the nation's largest flood control program.

The reservoir is the Conemaugh, nestling in the picturesque foothills of the Alleghenies a mile north of this western Pennsylvania town.

Conemaugh is the seventh in a chain of 13 reservoirs and dams designed to reduce flood dangers and damage at Pittsburgh 30 miles to the west. The largest to date in the chain, it eventually will be exceeded only by the $51,520,000 dam at Kinzua in northwestern Pennsylvania.

The whole system is part of the $1,951,300,000 Ohio river basin flood control program which extends into 12 states: Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia, North Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The 13 dams in the western Pennsylvania system will cost in the neighborhood of $189,300,000. That's a lot of money, but a single flood caused more damage. The direct loss alone from the St. Patrick's day flood of 1936 was $212,500,000 to say nothing of 50 lives lost in western Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh has an average of one flood every year and one-half. Weather bureau records list 123 floods—some large, some small—there since 1762.

FLOODS EXPENSIVE

Floods are expensive. The steel capital estimated that floods cost it $1,000 a minute for every foot its three rivers rise above the 25-foot flood stage. The 1936 flood was the worst, with a crest of 46 feet.

Years ago the Army engineers embarked on their vast dam-building plan to save western Pennsylvania's myriad industries and population from the devastating waters. When heavy spring rains come, the big dams impound the water until the river below can handle it safely.

The dams lie in the 19,000-square-mile drainage area of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers which merge at Pittsburgh to form the Ohio.

The Conemaugh is named for the Conemaugh river, whose waters it will impound, along with those of the Kiskiminetas river. The Conemaugh river is famed for its role in the catastrophic Johnstown flood in 1889 which cost 2,209 lives.

Army engineers estimated the Conemaugh dam would have lopped 4.6 feet off the 1936 flood crest at Pittsburgh. The first six dams built together would have lowered that crest another 5.5 feet, a total reduction of 10.1 feet.

Cost of the Conemaugh runs high because it requires relocation of 16 miles of double-line Pennsylvania track. This calls for eight new bridges and underpasses and a 2,660-foot tunnel dug through solid rock.

The 140-foot high dam will impound 274,000 acre-feet of water, one acre-foot being a body of water one foot deep and one acre in area.

Industries Recovering In Germany

Production High In Bizonal Area

BERLIN — (AP) — Thanks to industrial recovery and ERP aid, Western Germany for the first time since the war faces the winter with confidence

In the Anglo-American bizonal area industrial production is clipping along at a post-war high, with Ruhr steel production leading the way.

The vital Ruhr is in the British zone, but even in the less industrialized American occupation zone the outlook has improved tremendously since the currency reform operation performed in June.

"The industrial outlook is excellent," said Leo R. Werts, director of the American Military Government's manpower division.

He said that three months after currency reform one of the most stubborn problems appeared to have been at least arrested—that of rising unemployment.

Joblessness rocketed in the U.S. zone when money became scarce after the one-for-ten exchange of marks. It hit a postwar peak of 388,290 unemployed on Sept. 9 but within the next ten days dropped to 377,810. This figure represented only 4.6 percent of the total labor forces in the American zone.

UNEMPLOYMENT CHECKED

With the rise in unemployment checked, manpower officials looked to a job openings total of 70,000 to take up any slack. Skilled labor was still in large demand.

"It is not premature to say," Werts declared, "that short of some drastically unexpected change in the state of the economy there will be no profound dislocation in the labor market in the U. S. zone. The industrial outlook is excellent and the index of industrial production in the U. S. zone has risen 37 per cent since currency reform to the highest mark in the history of the occupation.

While there may be a seasonal levelling off in November or December with the onset of winter, a further increase in production is expected in October which, together with a rise in export-import trade, should sustain approximately the present level of employment."

This confident estimate is a far cry from the last two winters. The first of these forced a virtual freeze-down of industry in Bizonia and even the last one witnessed severe crippling and was marked by numerous hunger strikes. Now, however, with record food imports, good crops and ERP purchases to add a variety to their diet, the 40,000,000 Germans of Bizonia are enjoying the best ration that any part of Germany has seen since the war—perhaps even since 1943.

Deny Rebel Army Exists In Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba —(AP)— Minester of State Carlos Hevia said there are no armed expeditions forming in Cuba to attack any nation. He added, however, that Cuba sympathizes with any peoples oppressed by dictators.

Commenting on charges by Nicaragua's war minister, Gen. Anastasio Somoza that Cuba, with other South and Central American countries is backing a rebellion in Nicaragua, Hevia said:

"There are no armed expeditions in Cuba nor will any be allowed to form in future to attack other countries."

Truck Turns, Then Burns

WILMINGTON — (AP) — Thousands of gallons of gasoline burned for more than three hours Saturday after a tanker truck struck a bridge abutment and overturned at Caesar's Creek, nine miles northwest of here.

Sheriff Walton Spahr of Greene county said the driver was Robert Montague, 30, of Columbus, and that the man reported his truck "jack-knifed" after passing over the bridge. The truck struck abutments on both sides of the highway and then overturned, the sheriff said.

The driver escaped from the cab without injury before the explosion. The flaming gasoline set fire to the macadam covering over the concrete highway and the patrol blocked the road after 200 feet of the highway suffered heavy damage.

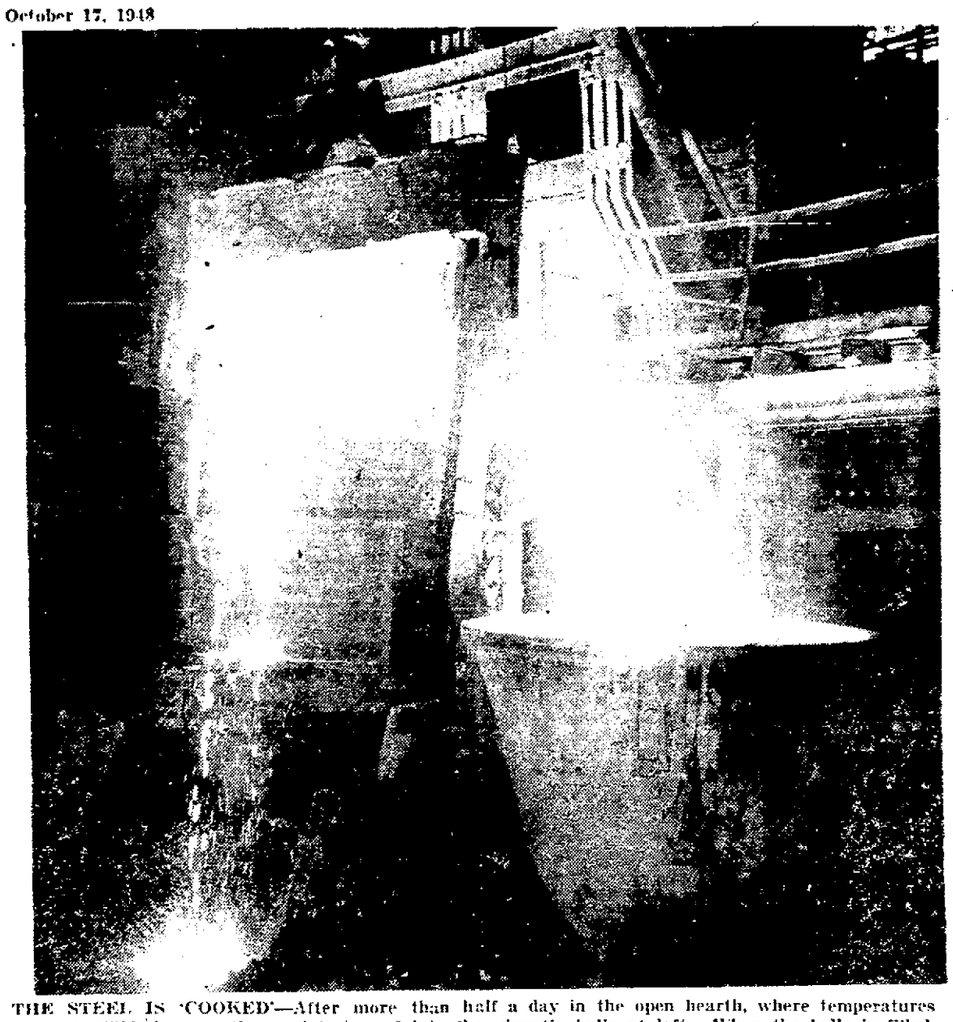
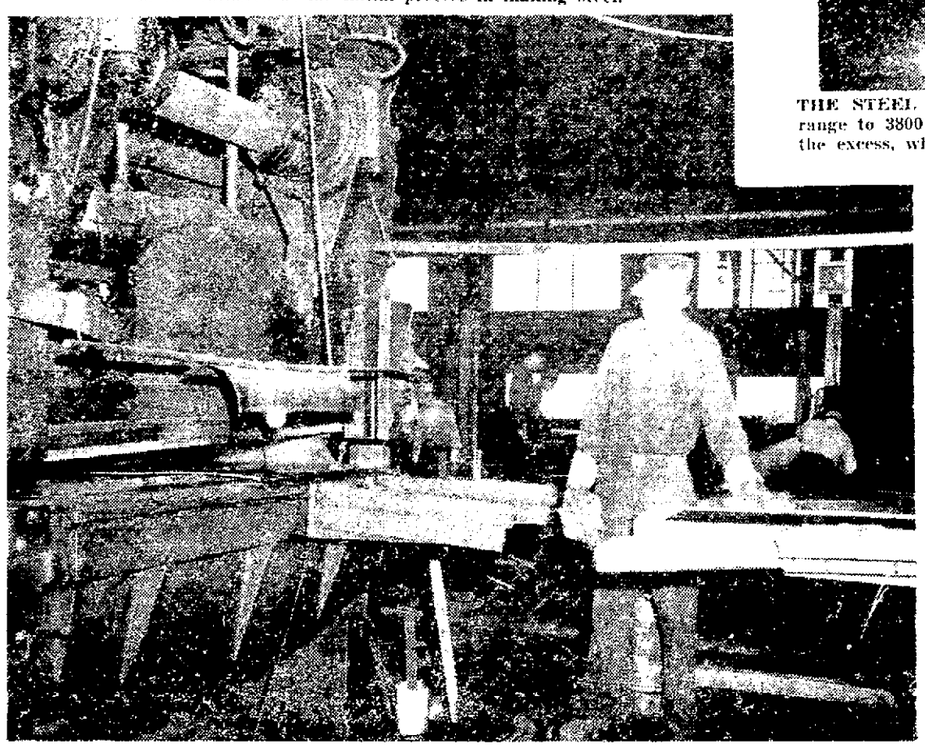
IT TAKES A LOT OF SCRAP—A locomotive pushes a string of cars into the open hearth furnace building where scrap mixed with pig iron and limestone is placed in the furnaces as the initial process in making steel.



THE STEEL IS 'COOKED'—After more than half a day in the open hearth, where temperatures range to 3800 degrees, the steel is tapped into the gigantic ladle at left. When the ladle is filled, the excess, which is called slag, overflows into the smaller ladle at right. The steel is poured into two-ton molds.

INTO THE FIERY OPEN HEARTH—Like some prehistoric monster, this machine dumps scrap iron into the open hearth. The machine picks up a load of scrap, puts into furnace, turns the load upside down, and draws back the container.



SEMI-FINISHED STEEL IS CUT—Earl Beilstein of Gray street, operates a shearing machine which cuts the sheet steel into specified dimensions. This is an old type machine. More modern types can do twice as much work in the same amount of time.

FURNACE CONTROL ROOM—H. L. Hemphill, 198 Rowland avenue, checks the instruments in the annealing furnace control room, where temperatures of the 1800 degree furnaces are controlled within a few degrees.

Lausche Bid Alters Race

Ohio Dem Leader Off Lone Course

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Frank J. Lausche's outright endorsement of President Truman may have a determining influence in deciding the Ohio gubernatorial contest between the former governor and Republican incumbent Thomas J. Herbert.

Governor Herbert at once seized upon his opponents endorsement of the President as linking him tightly with the New Deal, which President Truman advocated in an expanded form in his Akron speech Monday night.

Herbert declared Lausche's action had robbed him of one of his heretofore greatest political assets, political independence.

This independent attitude of Lausche, carried throughout his tenure as mayor of Cleveland and one term as governor, has been a valuable asset for Lausche particularly in the rural sections, where the voters shy generally from anything smacking of bossism.

The fact that Jack Kroll of Cincinnati, head of the CIO-PAC was one of the President's advisers during his trip through the state and spoke at the President's behalf from the same platform in Akron with Lausche and the President also served to connect Lausche indirectly with the CIO, which may influence the farmer vote, generally antagonistic to the CIO.

Lausche may suffer by his endorsement of Truman among the rural voters but there is a possibility it may help him in the industrial sections to balance any losses in the rural sections.

The [illegible] appeal to labor voters [illegible] to vote their individual political choice.

Whether Lausche was happy over his endorsement of the President is problematical. Throughout the President's stumping tour of the state Mr. Truman never [illegible] opportunity to [illegible] Lausche to vote for Lausche and [illegible] Lausche was forced [illegible] to respond with an endorsement of the President.

The battle between Lausche and Herbert thus has taken on a new aspect, which may be the deciding factor in their campaign.

Ponderous Machines Turn Scrap, Pig Iron Into Finished Steel

By NORMAN DRESSER

Steel making requires vast stocks of raw materials and men of brawn and brain.

While not the largest plant in Mansfield, the Empire Steel corporation is the city's "heaviest" industry. From the carloads of scrap and pig iron to the finished steel products, huge machines are necessary to operate this intricate business of making steel.

STARTS WITH RECIPE

Like any good cook, a steelmaker starts out with a recipe. In this case, the ingredients are scrap steel, pig iron, fuel oil, oxygen, and "pinches" of other raw materials.

Instead of baking a light, fluffy cake, the steelmaker "cooks" 150 tons of molten steel at one time.

John W. Hill, chief metallurgist at Empire, says that to produce 70,000 tons of steel a month requires 10,000 gallons of fuel oil a day, 3,000,000 kilowatt hours a month, and 120,000,000 cubic feet of gas a month, plus the raw ingredients used to make steel itself.

"You see these mountains of scrap steel? It may look like a lot of scrap to you, but can never get enough of the stuff," said Hill. "Scrap and pig iron are the two principal ingredients of steel, and it's the open hearth superintendent's job to see that they are mixed in the proper proportion.

"We mix these ingredients with limestone for a flux and place them in the open hearth furnace for 12 or 14 hours. Then we tap the furnace and the molten steel is placed in molds."

From the furnaces the steel is taken to the bar mill, where by an ingenious method the two-ton ingots of steel are rolled into huge slabs of unfinished steel.

Steel mill workers must not only be equipped with plenty of brawn, but many types of jobs require amazing skill. In the bar mill, one of the key men is the "manipulator." From a cage high above the roller-equipped runways of which carry the ingots from a reheating furnace to a huge rolling mill, he controls the ingot until it is converted into a slab.

To make matters more complex, the manipulator controls two ingots at once, one in the initial stage of flattening, and the other almost completed. Thus, in a matter of a few minutes, a manipulator can convert approximately eight tons of steel from ingot to slab.

But while the steel now is in the form of flat slabs, it is a long ways from the steel used in your automobile. Next, the steel must be flattened into sheets and treated by various other types of special processes.

"There are hundreds of different types of steel," Hill said. "It all depends on what you want to do with the steel. If you want steel for an automobile spring, it must be one type; if it's for making doors or bodies, it's another type."

HEAT DATES KEPT

An interesting sidelight is that every piece of steel made at Empire can be traced to the time and date it was made. Each batch of steel made in an open hearth is assigned a "heat" number. No two heats are exactly alike, and each one is analyzed for its strength and chemical makeup. This heat number remains with the steel until the product is placed in its final industrial use.

Thus if a defect should ever show up in the steel, metallurgists can trace the steel's entire history from the time its raw ingredients were placed in the furnace until the finished product was shipped to the automobile factory.

Whenever defective steel is found, the laboratory makes a complete investigation of the heat's history. Mill production executives also investigate the failure and usually, sooner or later, the error is found, and the steelmakers avoid a similar error there after.

USED IN AUTOMOBILES

Almost the entire out put of Empire goes to the automobile industry. Studebaker, now the parent corporation of Empire, gets the major portion, but many other automobile firms also buy steel from the local steel mill.

"As a matter of fact, some of our finished steel goes through the plant twice," Hill said. "What happens is that we ship steel to fabricating plants in the east. The company makes auto parts from our steel and then ships them back west, and the box cars pass right through Empire again on the Pennsylvania railroad."

Even on a chilly autumn day, a steel mill can be uncomfortably hot. In the south plant, where sheet steel is finished and cut, scores of men work not more than 15 feet from the mouth of huge reheating furnaces. The steel sheets come out of the furnace redhot and are passed through rolls again and again.

WORKERS WEAR MASKS

Many of the operators wear cloth or asbestos masks to protect themselves from the terrific heat. Huge fans send a hurricane of air toward the men, but the air is hot again by the time it reaches the workers.

There are some cool jobs, too. In the stamping department, huge 1,000-ton presses stamp out heavy machine parts. The employes, usually working in pairs, sit in the jaws of the giant presses as the dies, backed by 1,000 tons of pressure, ponderously stamp out the metal like a hot knife cutting butter.

Despite the massive equipment, there are many delicate operations involved. For example, in the annealing furnaces the steel sheets are heated up to 1800 degrees. So precise is the operation that temperatures must be maintained within one or two degrees. Electronics provide the answer to this problem in the control room a maze of instruments controls the 18 furnaces.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Because the steel industry inherently is dangerous, unusual precautions are taken to avoid accidents. The mill is plastered with safety signs and workers are trained on how to avoid accidents.

But despite every precaution, accidents do sometimes occur. When they do, the injured worker is given first aid in a well equipped hospital where a trained doctor and nurse are on duty 24 hours a day.

Scores Plan For Defense

YANKTON, S. D. — (AP) — Sen. Chan Gurney (R-SD) said Saturday Congress will have to appropriate funds before there can be further development of military reserve units.

Gurney, chairman of the Senate Armed Services committee, said "I can't see any good coming out of President Truman's directive yesterday to the Defense Department to organize the reserve."

In further brief comment from his home here on the President's call for reserve training programs, Gurney added:

"I am sure the defense establishment so far has done all it can with the funds available to it."

Pitt Comes Back Strong To Win 2nd

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — The Pitt Panthers rewrote the script between halves yesterday and turned a drab football game into a spectacular scoring story which gave them a 21-7 victory over Marquette university.

It was the first time since 1945 that Pittsburgh has won two in a row. The Panther season record now is two and two

Some 15,830 fans, hard put to stifle yawns as the teams frittered away first half chances, were kept on edge in the last half in an absorbing touchdown sequence featuring spectacular runs.

PENALTY HAZARD

Pitt won the ball game just as the Panthers seemed again doomed to be frustrated by penalties, a hazard they encountered all day. Infractions had put Pitt on its own 18 as the fourth period opened Then Halfback Louis (Bimbo) Ceccoli uncorked a long third down heave which Nick Derosa gathered in on the Marquette 46 and romped the rest of the way for an 82 yard touchdown play

Substitute Halfback Jack Smodic nailed the triumph down by intercepting a last resort pass by Hickey on the Marquette 40 and racing for a score.

Stanford Indians Scalp UCLA Club Handily, 34-14

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— A gallant, fired-up Stanford football team ended a long victory drought yesterday as they bowled over a favored UCLA eleven, 34 to 14, before 40,341 fans

It was the Indians' first Pacific Coast conference victory since the tail end of 1946

Marchie Schwartz' Redskins broke a 7-7 half-time deadlock in the first moments of the third period, and went on from a gentle scalping job to a massacre of the bulky bruins.

They took on and thoroughly thrashed a major foe, and did it to ruin the Bruins' annual homecoming celebration

Fullback Emery Mitchell, 191-pounder, shared honors with Halfback Bob White who accounted for three touchdowns, the last on a 41-yard gallop five minutes before the game ended.

Gene Rossides Hero, Goat Of Columbia Loss to Penn

NEW YORK—(AP)—Gene Rossides, Columbia's great little quarterback, went from hero to goat in one heartbreaking moment yesterday as the burly Penn team scoped a touchdown with only 32 seconds of play remaining to pull a 20 to 14 victory out of what had looked like certain defeat.

Rossides, pride of Brooklyn, passed for two first-half touchdowns which shot the Lions out in front of the Ivy league champions, 14-0

Then in the final 32 seconds of play, with the score Columbia 14, Penn 13 the little guy made his tragic blunder. He tried too hard to knock down a long Quaker aerial, bumped into the receiver and an alert official convicted him of interference on the three-yard line.

That was all the ponderous Quakers needed to score their third straight victory and remain in the running for the eastern title, they overcame a 15-yard penalty slapped on them for a personal foul and on fourth down Francis Bagnell whipped a short pass to End Bob Sponaugle across the goal line to turn Columbia's hopes to dust.

Good-Bye Harry, Big Sign Says It

MADISON, Wis —(AP)—A "good-bye, Harry" sign, aimed at Wisconsin Coach Harry Stuhldreher, was unfurled at Camp Randall stadium yesterday as the Badger football team was losing to Yale, 17-7.

The banner, about ten feet long was held by several persons sitting in the stands behind the Badger bench.

Several Wisconsin players rose from the bench, turned around and shouted at those holding the sign.

One, T. A. Cox, shook his fists at the banner holders but was restrained by teammates from going into the stands

Coach Harry Stuhldreher is in his 13th year at Wisconsin His team this year has won one and lost three games.

Massillon 11 Favorite In Big Contest

Mather has run up an impressive record, marking up victories in the first four games this year. Steubenville fell, 34-21; Youngstown South, 28-7; Cleveland Cathedral Latin, 34-13 and Canton Lincoln, 25-0. Last week came the end of the joyride against Alliance.

Mansfield also has a four won, one lost record but has compiled it in opposite fashion. The Tygers lost first to Whiting, Ind., then ran away with their wins. Victims were Cleveland East, 27-6; Sandusky, 27-13; Portsmouth, 33-0, and Springfield, 26-20.

ANOTHER TOP TEAM

Saturday, local fans will get a look at another of the state's top teams when Mt. Vernon's undefeated Yellow Jackets come here for a game at Madison.

The Jackets have come up with their best team in a number of years and have been bowling over opposition with little trouble. Their latest victory was a 19-7 conquest of Upper Arlington. Probably their biggest achievement was a 24-6 opening game victory over tough Coshocton.

Madison will be attempting to bounce back from Friday's 19-6 loss to Loudonville, which ended its ten-game winning streak compiled in two seasons. The Rams are in for a lot of hard practice this week and Coach Ennis Walker has promised that it will be a different ball club wearing the black and gold uniforms this week.

ALSO UNBEATEN

Among the undefeated teams in the area, Bucyrus has the toughest row to hoe while Loudonville and Bellville should have easy times rolling up their sixth consecutive victories.

The Bucyrus Redmen, highest scoring team in North Central Ohio, will be host to Crestline which is a much better team than its 2-2 record indicates. The game is a North Central Ohio league encounter.

Bellville meanwhile journeys to Mt. Gilead while Loudonville invades Rittman.

2 Fleet Backs Spark State

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — (AP) — A pair of halfbacks, Elwood Petchel and Wally Triplett, sparked the Penn State football team to a 37-7 win over West Virginia yesterday before 18,000 fans.

Triplett, a fleet footed senior from Lamott, Pa., brought the partison Penn State crowd to its feet twice in the third quarter as he reeled off runs of 85 and 64 yards for two touchdowns.

Playing without its passing star quarterback, Jimmy Walthall, West Virginia was unable to score until the final period when a drive of 74 yards ended with Substitute Halfback Fred Cialli plunging over from the four-yard line.

Cleveland Browns Battle Buffalo 11

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Browns go after their seventh straight victory in the All-America pro football conference today when they collide with the dangerous Buffalo Bills at the lakefront stadium at 2 p. m.

The Browns won as they pleased over the Bills in an exhibition game in Akron Today's game may develop into a passing duel between George ("The Kid") Ratterman of Buffalo and Cleveland's great Otto Graham.

Dartmouth Romps

HANOVER —(AP)— Scoring in every period Dartmouth's hard driving Indians yesterday battered the Red Raiders from Colgate 41-16 before 12,000 fans. It was one of the largest winning margins piled up by a Dartmouth team in some time.

Skeet Shooting

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Close to 150 of the state's scattergun artists will participate here Oct. 23-24 in the 1948 Ohio skeet championships at the Columbus Gun club.

Mississippi State Rally Whips Cincinnati, 27-0

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—(AP)—After a sluggish first half that ended 0-0, Mississippi State scored four touchdowns in the last two periods yesterday to whip Cincinnati, 27-0.

The visitors, defenders of the mid-American conference title, failed to develop offensive power. They racked up 41 net yards rushing as compared to 206 for the home boys.

A crowd of 10,000 sat almost listless during the scoreless first half.

State began its scoring streak in the third quarter coincident with the entrance of the veteran Shorty McWilliams into the game. From McWilliams' set-up that put the State ball in the 15-yard range, wingback Crosby Simmons, a sophomore, reversed over left for the first six points.

Doug Colston, junior tailback, followed through in the last quarter by sparking a 60-yard drive that finally took him over for the second marker.

Passes by Colston to sophomore Jack Crocker and to Junior James Pittman achieved the position for Colston to score again. The final touchdown was by Carl Scheider, sophomore tailback, who intercepted Don McWilliam's pass and ran 23 yards.

Underdog Yale Rips Badgers By 17-7 Tally

MADISON, Wis. — (AP) — A spirited, underdog Yale football team spotted Wisconsin a touchdown yesterday and then swept to a 17-to-7 victory.

With the exception of a first period drive that brought the Badgers a score, they were outfought and outcharged by the lighter Bulldogs.

Wisconsin scored on a 42-yard gallop by Clarence Self before the game was three minutes old. Yale meanwhile kept plugging away, knotting the score after recovering a Wisconsin fumble on the Badger 19, with flashy Levi Jackson going from the two.

The Bulldogs went into the lead in the third period on Ferd Nadherny's nine-yard crash over center and wound up their scoring on William Booe's 15-yard placement in the same period. Booe also kicked extra points after the first two scores. Lisle Blackbourn booted Wisconsin's extra point.

Bronze Statue Is Unveiled

LEXINGTON, Ky. — (AP) — A bronze statue of the late Man-O'-War was unveiled without ado yesterday at nearby Faraway farm.

A final inspection by sculptor Herbert Haseltine preceded the opening to the public. The statue is one-fifth larger than lifesize of Big Red, one time the foremost thoroughbred of the country.

Man-O'-War died last Nov. 1 after suffering a third heart attack. He led a pensioner's life several months before his death. He had three careers—as a racer, a sire and a public attractions.

Haseltine had been working on the statue since 1941.

Tennessee 11 Rips Alabama

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (AP) — Tennessee thrilled a record-breaking homecoming crowd of 48,000 persons yesterday by coming out of the doldrums and smashing Alabama, 21 to 6.

The largest crowd ever to watch a football game in Tennessee saw the inspired Vols unleash a slashing running attack that ripped the huge Crimson Tide forewall to smithereens.

With their ace passer, J. B. Proctor, sidelined by an injury, Tennessee elected to battle it out on the ground with Alabama — and won going away.

Texans Slip By Arkansas, 14-6

AUSTIN, Tex. —(AP)— Hard-hitting Texas overpowered stubborn Arkansas, 14 to 6, here yesterday to grab its Southwest conference opener before 46,000 football fans.

The big fast Longhorn line kept Clyde (Smackover) Scott, the Arkansas left half, bottled up except for one brief moment when Scott streaked 36 yards for the lone Razorback score.

Beau Nash Wins Final Ohio Race at Beulah

COLUMBUS — (AP)— Beau Nash, owned by T. J. Collins, flashed to victory by half a length in the fourth running of the $5,000 Ohio championship handicap at Beulah Park yesterday.

It was the final day of the thoroughbred season in Ohio. South Dakota was second.

Red Bayles Favored Driver In Final Big Car Racing

ASHLAND, Red Bayles of Columbus, currently the hottest dirt track driver in the midwest will be the man to beat when big-car racing makes its final Ohio stand at the Ashland county fairgrounds today.

Bayles, winner of the recent Tri-State Racing association championship and winner of 15 of his last 21 starts, will attempt to again show his fellow drivers the shortest way around the track.

At least four thousand spectators are expected to jam the fairground speedway to watch the races and F. V. Metzgar, Tri-State president, said attendance might top 5,000 on the basis of advance sales.

More than 25 entries already are in and the Tri-State prexy said he expected several late entries would get into the race when trials start at noon Sunday.

While Bayles has been installed as the pre-race favorite, he'll get all the opposition he can handle from a stellar field which will include Carl Scarborough of Kego Harbor, Mich., Buck Barr of Altoona, Pa., Billy McGee of Steubenville, Harry King of Los Angeles, Frankie Lupto of Tampa, Fla. and Ralph Stevens of Detroit.

Seven events will make up the program starting with the time trials at noon. A really interesting phase of the year's final speed carnival is the tune-up events. In the tune trials, some of the fastest running is usually seen.

The race proram proper will begin at 2:30 with the first of three eight-lap elimination events.

Oregon Edges Southern Cal In Thriller

PORTLAND, Ore. — (AP) — Oregon's Norm Van Brocklin helped keep the Ducks' Rose Bowl hopes alive yesterday by sparking a 8-7 Pacific coast conference victory over the Southern California Trojans.

Van Brocklin passed to one touchdown, but unexpectedly, it was his punting that gave Oregon the edge in a football game before a capacity crowd of 33,000 in Multnomah stadium.

Before the period ended, he whipped a 40-yard pass to End Dick Wilkins who had outrun the Troy defense. Wilkins took it on the five and stumbled across the goal for the touchdown. Van Brocklin's kick was wide.

In the second quarter Van Brocklin's punt to the seven led to the safety. The Trojans attempted to punt, but End Dan Garza sailed in fast, blocked the ball, and Oregon was ahead, 8-0, at the half.

In the third quarter, the Trojans took a punt on their own 31, and moved 69 yards, entirely on power plays, to a touchdown by Halfback Don Doll. Quarterback Dean Dill converted.

Army Eleven Raps Harvard

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(AP)—Unbeaten Army defeated Harvard 20-7, yesterday, scoring its fourth straight gridiron triumph of 1948 as young, hard-running Gil Stephenson tallied all three touchdowns before a crowd of 26,921 at Michie stadium.

Harvard tied the score at 7-7 late in the second period on a ten-yard pass from Charley Roche to Bill Henry but the Cadets remained in command throughout the second half.

A DREAM COME TRUE SUBURBAN

I know that many times you have had that dream of owning a real comfortable home just a little ways from town. Say one that had 3 nice bedrooms, modern kitchen and bath—a beautiful living room and nice light dining room. Maybe you have thought of having a little land, say about an acre and it would have a nice building on the back where you could keep a few chickens and maybe a riding horse. It would have to have a nice place for a work shop too, some place to keep your garden tools and all your tinkering tools. You would want nice fenced in garden, a small pasture, and some fruit trees—and wouldn't you want a good basement with automatic stoker fired furnace, your own water supply—and a Westinghouse automatic hot water heater. You would want carpeting and venetian blinds and a well landscaped front yard with a fish pond maybe. WELL BROTHER I HAVE THAT DREAM FOR SALE AND IT WOULD TAKE ONLY ABOUT $4,000 CASH DOWN TO SWING THE DEAL. WHY NOT DRIVE OUT TODAY ANY TIME BETWEEN 1 O'CLOCK AND 6. Let's LOOK IT OVER TOGETHER AND THEN YOU BE THE JUDGE. EXCELLENT REASON FOR SELLING—I'LL BE SEEING YOU. FIRST HOUSE PAST SCOTTY'S FURNITURE STORE.

New Orleans Fights Child Delinquency

Recreation Group Triples Play Units

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — This city has found a way to fight juvenile delinquency with fun.

In less than two years the New Orleans department of recreation has more than tripled the number of playgrounds, and child crime troubles have been reduced correspondingly.

Discussing increasing childhood mischief in 1946, the city reasoned this way: Children will play, even if they have to play in vacant lots or railroad yards. They will play sandlot baseball with no equipment or supervision. But without steadying influences the playing often takes a wild, unwholesome turn.

So the 16 different boards and commissions for recreation, then operating with no over-all program and with inadequate facilities, were merged into a single department, kept free of politics and staffed by trained instructors hired on a civil service basis.

To head this undertaking, "Mr. X" was hired. He is Lester J. Lautenschlaeger jr., a former Tulane football star. Sportswriters could never fit his long name into a headline, so they labeled him "Mr. X." Now a prominent lawyer, he took over the recreation job at $1 a year. A staff of college-trained supervisors was built up. A big construction program was begun.

Now, less than two years later, New Orleans has 96 playgrounds. There is a recreation center within easy reach of every part of the city.

The program took a lot of doing.

Five neighborhood youth centers were placed in operation by remodeling two abandoned jails, a derelict fire station and two old public meat markets. Seven swimming pools were built.

BUILD YOUTH CENTER

A youth center occupying a whole city block is being constructed from surplus army camp lumber, bricks from a condemned fire station and various other substitutes for costly new materials.

Another youth center will soon rise around the abandoned steel framework of a former streetcar barn.

A complete stadium and floodlighted park for Negroes is going up in a formerly darkened and tree-filled square that was one of the city's worst crime spots.

A former army hospital recreation plant was taken over complete with swimming pool, gymnasium, theater and hothouse for nature study classes.

Thirty school playgrounds, idle after 3:30 p. m. during school terms, are staffed by the department and assured of full time summer operation. Twenty of them are floodlighted for night use.

All told, 58 new play centers opened in one year after the department was organized.

Attendance at supervised playgrounds has jumped considerably. At summer peak this year over 350 trained supervisors were on the job.

In 1947 the department organized 465 basketball teams and 120 baseball teams. It had 10,000 children in track meets; 8,000 taking swimming instructions; 15,000 children studying dramatics; 16,000 in arts and crafts classes.

A deparment-sponsored playday attracted 2,000 kids; 3,000 turned out for an Easter egg hunt; 450 entered dogs, cats, birds and goats in a pet show and over 2,000 took tennis lessons at the city's expense.

Figures, although not yet totalled, indicate 1948 was an even bigger year all around.

Connoisseur of Politics

Norman Thomas 'Collects' Campaigns

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NORMAN THOMAS

NEW YORK — (AP) — Some men collect stamps. Others are gourmets. Norman Thomas, a tall, balding man with definite ideas and a fine sense of humor, is a connoisseur of campaigns. Political campaigns, that is.

Thomas is the socialist party candidate for president of the United States — his sixth try for the office — but he's been running for public office almost constantly since 1924. He's never won, he never has held an elective job. But he has made a highly articulate try for just about every office from New York City alderman to the highest post in the land.

"But you know," he confessed, settling down in an easy chair, "In all the times I've run, I've never had any unpleasant episodes. Oh, once a long time ago, an egg was thrown in a hall, but that was just done by a bad little boy. Wendell Willkie had much more trouble than I've ever had, and Henry Wallace....."

"I used to say it was a tribute to the American people that they took political campaigns seriously. Americans usually are very polite and stand being bored exceedingly well. They don't even heckle as much as the English do."

The perennial socialist candidate said, most of the time, he enjoys campaigning — authough he wasn't particularly enthusiastic earlier this year about carrying the socialist banner another titme.

"But it has turned out to be quite pleasant," he confessed. "Much better than I expected. The 1944 campaign was the worst I ever experienced.

CAMPAIGN WAS 'GRIM'

"It was grim. That's the only word for it. I felt I was saying very important things; I knew they were important things, and people just wouldn't listen to me."

He leaned back and smiled reminiscently.

"The most enjoyable campaign I ever was in was a few years back. I was running for senator — and my wife and I took off in a little ramshackle car, a jalopy, and went all over New York state. It was beautiful, the fall colors, and we'd just stop in each town we came to, and I'd stand up and make a speech. Yes, I think I enjoyed that campaign more than any other."

Socialist party candidates, even when they are running for president, don't campaign with the opulence of the major party chosen.

"For financial and other reasons, there aren't any campaign trains," Thomas said. "This has advantages and disadvantages. It certainly gives one a certain degree of anonymity—which is good sometimes and sometimes not so good."

He enjoyed his anonymity the other day in Austin, Tex.

"President Truman's train was coming into town—I frequently cross paths with other candidates—so I got up early in the morning to go down to the station and watch the show," he said.

"It was very poor stuff," said Thomas, with the impersonal air of a critic reviewing a play. "No dramatic moment when you first see him—no dramatic moment when he disappears. Local dignitaries brought up to the platform late. Schedules mixed up. No, you can carry this business of just being one of the folks too far."

INTEREST DECLINING

"In my own lifetime I've watched a decline of interest in going to political meetings," he said. "Partly it's the radio. Partly it's because there are so many other things to do. But even the major parties are having trouble drumming up interest. They had to put on movie stars, singers and entertainment to draw crowds."

Thomas thinks future political campaigning may be entirely by radio: "Each candidate would make 10 or 12 carefully drawn speeches covering the major points of his program."

Fire Engines, Buckets Save Burning Home

The neighbors' bucket brigade and two fire engines saved the home of James M Kilgore Hickory Lane, East Mansfield, last night

A fire of undetermined origin broke out in the attic of the frame house shortly before 9:30 p m. and damaged the attic and resulted in smoke and water damage to two upstairs bedrooms.

Two engines from the Central station were summoned to the scene.

There are no fire hydrants in East Mansfield, and in a short time, the 200 gallons of water in each of the two pumpers sent to the fire, were exhausted.

Dozens of neighbors, attracted to the scene by fire truck searchlights, former a bucket brigade and for more than two hours hauled water from wells and cisterns to the fire engines. The water was poured into the trucks' tanks and in turn pumped through the fire hoses.

Wallace Party Wins Court Suit

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio Supreme court Saturday ordered Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel to give more prominence to the Henry Wallace electors on voting machines or show cause why he should not.

Judge William L. Hart of the Supreme Court granted to the electors an alternative writ of mandamus. The Secretary of State must answer by 10 a. m. Tuesday.

The electors seek to revise the presidential ballot arrangement on all voting machines to be used at the November 2 election.

City's Civil Service Test Set Nov. 4

Will Fill Future Job Openings

Mansfielders who have lived here a year or more will have a chance to qualify for a place on the city payroll Nov 4, when the Mansfield Civil Service commission holds examinations for eight different job classifications.

The open competitive examinations will be given at the John Simpson Junior High school at 7 p. m.

No positions are open at present, but the commission is following its policy of holding the examinations whenever the backlog of applications drops below a certain point, Tom Woodard, chairman of the Mansfield Civil Service Commission, said yesterday. As vacancies occur they are filled from the applications on file.

Persons wishing to take the examinations must obtain blanks which will be available in the offices of the Civil Service commission on the second floor of the City building between 7 and 9 p. m., Oct 28. At that time interested persons will be interviewed and questions concerning the jobs will be answered.

The position of female patrolman, now filled on the basis of a provisional appointment, will be placed under civil service.

The examination for the position will be open to all Mansfield women between the ages of 21 and 29 who have lived in the city for at least one year The job pays $160 a month plus $25 bonus during the 90-day probationary period and thereafter $205 a month plus the $25 bonus

The same pay scale applies to the other jobs in the police and fire departments, as does the age range. Minimum height for firemen is 5 feet nine inches; for patrolmen, 6 feet.

Other job classifications for which the examinations will be given include: operator in the Mansfield sanitary plant, truck driver, truck driver's helper, class "A" laborer in all departments, and assistant janitor for Mansfield public schools. Men between the ages of 22 and 45 are eligible for those jobs.

Veterans Urged To Act on Bonus

Veterans who have not yet applied for their Ohio bonus were urged yesterday to contact the Soldiers and Sailors Relief commission office, 82 West Fourth street.

H. A. Vandervort, the service officer, warned that in the past many application forms have been filled out improperly, delaying the arrival of the bonus checks by several weeks. He pointed out that veterans can get professional assistance in filling out the applications at his organization.

Tiny White House Opened to Public

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — One of the youngest exhibitors in the American Royal Livestock show Saturday walked off with the grand champion steer award in the junior division.

Tiny Beryl King, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis King, Garber, Okla., smiled in delight when judges, after long deliberation, selected his 1,100-pound Hereford steer as the junior winner.

His steer now is eligible for competition with the grand champion steer in the open class, to be named later, for the title of grand champion steer of the Royal.

A contrast was provided for judges when Beryl, who weighs only about 80 pounds, led the heavy animal into the ring. Beryl is a 4-H club member.

Bishop Flays U. N. Action

BOSTON —(AP)— Roman Catholic Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston last night described as "craven appeasement" a decision by the nations of the Christian west to deny God for fear of "the atheists in the Kremlin."

In a strongly-phrased address prepared for a meeting of the International Federation of Catholic alumnae the archbishop criticized the Paris meeting of the United Nations for omitting the name of God from a statement and declared:

". . . How can we accept in silence this latest and most craven appeasement, the agreement to deny God ourselves and in lands outside the immediate sway of Red atheism?," he asked.

Trieste Gets Marshall Aid

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The state department announced Saturday that the American-British zone of the free territory of Trieste has been taken into the European recovery program.

The department said that the council of the organization for European economic cooperation (the Marshall plan countries) had admitted American-British zone of Trieste membership on Thursday.

A formal agreement between the American government and the zone command for "economic cooperation" was concluded in Trieste yesterday.

Formerly the western powers' zone of Trieste received American help on a relief basis.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Two-Year College Course Favored

PREPARATION for peace, despite appearance of what some regard as the threat of an imminent war, is advised in a new book, "Education In a Divided World," by James B. Conant, president of Harvard University.

Dr. Conant, in discussing the European crisis, says he doubts if the Soviets will force the issue, provided Britain, France and America are firm in holding just positions.

Chief concern of Dr. Conant, as revealed in his book, centers around need for changes in the American educational system to best serve the future, rather than being bound by precedents in which there are obvious weak spots.

More and more the weight of argument is being thrown in favor of making a two-year college course available to high school graduates who are not aiming toward a professional career but who feel the need for education above the high school level.

The customary four-year college course is recognized as valuable to the limited number of students who are preparing for some one of the professions—but it is now realized that institutions of higher education cannot be expanded to the point of providing four, or more, years of instruction for all young people, as serious problems of overcrowding have already arisen.

While high school graduation is now considered a minimum educational requirement, the claimed advantages of one or two years of college training are quite generally accepted, but in many cases the completion of four years in college is regarded as a waste of time and money.

It seems not unlikely that cities of Mansfield's size may sometime add local facilities for two years of college work to customary high school courses, so that institutions designed for more elaborate "higher education" can be relieved of the overcrowding already being experienced.

Science Strives To Avert Starvation

ONE of the major worries of agronomists is based on their belief that the world's population is increasing toward a point where the amount of land which is available for cultivation will no longer furnish enough food.

A Cleveland chemist, Dr. L. S. Roehm, believes that this doom may be averted by means of modern chemical discoveries. Modern breeding methods have for some time been making two ears of corn grow where one grew before. An improvement in quality and resistance to disease in corn and other grains has been brought about also. Dr. Roehm's hopes for further gains are founded on the recent application of chemicals such as pure ammonia, which, when added to the soil, promotes quick growth of plant life.

The men in the laboratories will no doubt continue to perfect methods of growing more and better food products in a given area, to the end that larger numbers of people may be fed; if, that is, we can retain the soil we have left, instead of continuing to pour it into the sea.

Would Enliven Study of Latin

LATIN in its day was a live language, and the ancient Romans who spoke it were real people. Few high school students of Latin appreciate this; and who is to blame? Julius Caesar. Miss Lenore Geweke of the University of Chicago is voicing this idea, which a good many friends of Latin have had for years but have not done anything about.

How is Latin taught in school? First comes a long series of grammatical lessons with exercises, tedious occupation if ever there was any. Then students learn to read Caesar's account of his campaigns in Gaul. These are dry, unadorned reports with hardly any personal touches and nothing enlivening.

A few weeks spent on them may be useful, especially if they are treated as history and not merely as grammar. But it is almost impossible to keep up interest in them for a year, most of which might far better be spent on Ovid and other Latin writers.

Then there is Virgil, one of the world's great poets, whose story of the flight of Aeneas from burning Troy, his romance with Dido, the Carthaginian queen, and his battles in Italy to win a kingdom and a bride, make up some of the best reading in the world. Why not read Virgil, and encourage Latin students to continue the language? Miss Geweke thinks so, and is trying to round up other teachers to support her.

Enjoy Old-Style Railroad Excursion

WHAT was a train ride like in grandfather's day? Residents of Chatham, N. Y., near the Massachusetts line, got a chance to find out the other day when the Rutland railroad ran a special excursion to Manchester, Vt., a 160-mile round trip. This particular line has not been used for passenger service for ten years. In reviving it for a day, the railroad used the oldest locomotive and equipment it could find, in an effort to reproduce the setting of a railroad journey a generation ago. The trip was taken by 374 passengers.

While the popularity of automobiles is better known, an astonishing number of people like to ride the trains. Local railroad historical societies are springing up all over the United States, with one aim—the organizing of special trips over lines which have abandoned regular passenger service.

Here's an idea for the B. & O. whose earlier excursions to Sandusky, and also to "points south," are well remembered by many Mansfielders.

Considering the improbability of solution of Europe's problems, Harry Wade presents the idea: "How would it be if the present population just emigrated, and the place were thrown open to new settlers?"

Claude Callan concludes, "Helping foreign nations probably will turn out to be like helping relatives. They just fall out with you because you don't help them more."

Psychologists contend that it is possible to learn while sleeping—so cheer up if the children seem to be dozing over their home work.

Now it's National Cat week that is announced to start November 7—whatever you want to do about it.

One observer comments: "Other people's burdens always seem light because you are not carrying them."

A Voice From the Country

'Inflation' Signals Expanding Economy

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

IT SEEMS to me that each day proves a little more the falsity of the old New Deal theory that the economy of this nation is a mature economy and that there is no more room for expansion. The theory was, of course an offshoot of the long since discredited economic philosophy of the late Lord Keynes and it served beautifully the purposes of all those who sought to regiment and socialize the lives of all of us. A depression, born to a large extent of folly and the equally unsound theories and behavior of many of our "big business men," and the foolish prediliction of our citizens to gamble in things they knew little about, created the opportunity to put into practice many of the regimentation plans of the Keynesian boys.

BROMFIELD

Perhaps that was a good thing for it brought about the exposure and abandonment of many of their theories and the correction of many practices of a good many "big businessmen," who turned out to be not clever or constructive men but morons or crooks or a combination of both, taking advantage of a colossal and unrestricted boom to feather their own nests with paper profits.

One of the safeguards against the total and sudden collapse of the present high prices wages and profits lies in the paradoxical fact that under the New Deal certain restrictions came into being which restrict the activities of the promoters, the exploiters, the crooks and morons

* * *

Healthy Sign.

ONLY last week an official of one of the great national commerce organizations was complaining to me because in the very midst of high wages, prices, employment and profits, the prices of sound industrial stocks were low and that bidding on the Stock Exchange was sluggish.

On the whole this seemed to me the healthiest of signs, far healthier than the insanity which preceded the Great Depression when stocks were quoted at many times the value of earning capacity and capital plant investment all taken together.

It meant that the Stock Exchange was no longer simply a super gambling casino in which every bootblack and news boy and hat-check girl was throwing money on the table and becoming a paper millionaire overnight.

If there was any cause for alarm, it lay in the evidence that near-confiscatory taxes had drained off for government extravagance the capital which should have been employed in developing war industry and new businesses to meet the demands of an expanding population and economy

The utter falsity of the "mature economy" theory was brought sharply home to me over again on a recent 5,000 mile swing through the Pacific northwest and Canada

What I saw there was a whole pageant of vast and undeveloped resources plus a labor condition in which there were certainly two jobs for every man and woman who wanted to work.

A similar trip, made a little earlier through the South, revealed a spectacle of a whole important segment of our nation and economy coming to life after a century of decline It was the spectacle of great economic assets and material production being created more and more rapidly by a rapidly increasing sound agriculture the influx of new industry high employment and higher wages and purchases power

I saw it all the way through the T V A from New Orleans to Richmond and Memphis to Jacksonville the fabulous story of Texas speaks for itself

What I saw was not the kind of boom that is indicated by stock market gambling and bigger and bigger paper pyramiding of industrial controls but the actual evidence of healthy growth and expansion.

* * *

A Growing Country.

IT IS often overlooked that our population has increased by three Canadas since 1932 and nearly fifteen millions since 1940. Much of this increase means new markets for milk for clothes for bicycles and eventually for houses and automobiles It also means more hands and brains to produce these things.

The population is still growing and doubtless will continue to grow for many years to come before it reaches that point where the pinch begins to be felt.

Before now the writer has suggested that the "inflation" which alarms many people, may not be inflation at all but only a sign of growing pains of an expanding economy in which supply cannot keep pace with demand and in which this situation has been aggravated by war-created shortage.

Our economic base is eminently sound in the fields of real wealth and raw materials, productivity, purchasing power and vast interior markets. It is not faced by the break-down of all these factors to one extent or another, as are the economies of most of the other nations of the world

It is just possible that it takes today two dollars to buy what one dollar bought in 1939 because more money had to be created in order to do business on the level of what most people thought should be the value of a dollar.

In case you get to worrying about our economy being "mature" with no possibility of expansion, I suggest you take a tour around this vast rich country with open and observing eyes and notice the potentialities which are still undeveloped.

The follies, the stupidities and the crookedness of one section of big business—that sector which largely created artificially the booms and depressions of the past—have been checked and put under control and for that, despite its own abysmal follies, the New Deal can take a big bow.

Assignment: America

Dimitri Had a Reason

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON — Dimitri Karaghisov is a big, blond, handsome Bulgarian with a wide grin

When you meet him, you get the impression that he now is a very happy guy.

You also get the impression that, even so, he still is a very scared diplomat. And, after a while, you understand why.

At this writing, Dimitri is staying at the Carroll Arms hotel here in Washington, listed technically as being "in charge of the Pentagon." Despite the confusing terminology of that phrase, it is supposed to indicate that he is under the protective care of our military people, and not — as it might sound — that he has anything to do with the control of our national defense.

Even so, the phraseology can leave you slightly fussed. It could mean anything — or nothing.

And when reporters drop around to see Dimitri and ask him questions, he waxes eloquent on "how beautiful it is here in the autumn." Beyond that, he seems unable to get specific. And, since most Washington reporters already are aware of the capital's autumnal beauty, they naturally feel a bit frustrated when Dimitri declines to discuss the details of his unannounced arrival in America.

And when he professes a complete ignorance as to why this country's military folk should be interested in him and looking out for his welfare, it is disconcerting, to say the least.

Nevertheless, after a while you begin to understand And therein, perhaps lies a lesson for us all.

* * *

There's An Explanation

DIMITRI, a 38-year-old diplomat who seemed happy enough to meet reporters, has been the acting Bulgarian consul general at Istanbul — Turkey, that is — for the past two years.

When he first showed up here, reports from Turkish newspapers said that he was carrying secret codes and diplomatic papers. There was, in fact, quite a to-do about it in the Black Sea bailiwick

But Dimitri said that it was all "rubbish." He said there was no mystery about him at all He said that he simply had resigned his post, obtained a visitor's visa from an American consular officer and set sail for the United States.

It was all very simple and highly legal, he said, adding that it was utterly ridiculous to talk about him having disappeared "mysteriously" from Istanbul.

But then, some of the boys who had heard that song before began to question him more closely. Perhaps it was unkind. Perhaps it was important. The only point, to them, was that they had a job to do and they pursued it meticulously. And they got results.

Dimitri Karaghisov admitted that he had gone into hiding for something like four days after his resignation was turned in to the Bulgarian administration. It was at the end of those four days of hiding, he said, that he went aboard the Turkish ship that landed him in Baltimore last week.

It was obvious that Dimitri, despite his diplomatic training, was not happy at being talked into making these disclosures. But the boys had even more questions. Why had he resigned, they wanted to know Dimitri gulped. Then: "I'm not a communist," he said.

In half a dozen subsequently blurted sentences, he made it clear that he considered that statement reason enough for not returning to Bulgaria under the present Soviet satellite regime.

Having said that, he hurriedly added that he had many friends here whom he had met abroad, and insisted that he only came to the United States to visit his friends and plan his "future."

—By KEN WOODMAN

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW, the salty vegetarian, isn't going to like this, but scientists have recently discovered that mammals with short digestive tracts, such as chickens, dogs and men cannot grow their best on vegetable proteins alone.

* * *

Tests made during the war proved that some factor is missing in vegetable proteins that is necessary to full growth. The factor has been labeled APF. Only hope for confirmed vegetarians is that it is also found in fish. So they'll only have to break over half-way and a cow can still march in Shaw's funeral procession as he has requested.

* * *

However, the serious side to all this is that concentrates of the APF have been made which, it is hoped, may some day be of help in treating cases of pernicious anemia.

As Cerf Tells It

Apocryphal Story Number 1077: William Tell's son balanced the apple carefully on his noggin, yawned, and said, "Okay, Pop! Shoot your arrow." Tell Senior, however, seemed reluctant to proceed. The son watched him dawdling, and chided, "Whatcha doing now, Pop? Waiting for the Overture?"

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Even Careful Dewey Makes a Mistake

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Keeping the record straight—Speaking in Pittsburgh, Governor Dewey made this significant promise to the voters: "We will bring a new and vigorous leadership to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service so that major disputes can be settled before they become strikes." What Dewey didn't know was that the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service is already being run by Republicans. Its head, Cyrus Ching, is a life-long Republican and has been doing such a good job that Congressman Fred Hartley of New Jersey, co-author of the Taft-Hartley Act, praised him highly.

PEARSON

Ching is a former big-business executive, spent most of his life with the U. S. Rubber company, is former president of the American Management Association and a member of the bluestocking club of big business, the National Association of Manufacturers.

After thirty years in business, Ching felt it was his duty to give part of his life to his government and, at great financial sacrifice, became chief of the labor conciliation service—a thankless job in which you get kicked around by both sides.

Ching returned to Washington the day after Dewey's blast and read in the newspapers what his own candidate had said about him. During the trip Ching had reorganized important conciliation service offices, changing personnel, improving morale. Unfortunately, Dewey's blast cut the ground out from under that morale, because newly hired personnel now expect to be fired.

Uncle Sam's Vodka.

JOE STALIN may not know it, but while his agents have been trying to dope out our atomic bomb, the U. S. internal revenue bureau is trying to dope out Russia's most explosive concoction—vodka.

The bureau's alcoholic tax unit will hold a hearing October 25 to explore vodka production in the U. S. A. Various small U. S. distillers are making vodka, but their products are as variable in quality and alcoholic proof as American "moonshine."

Uncle Sam's "revenooers" now aim to establish a set formula that will approach Uncle Joe's standard, so the public will know what it's getting when it buys domestic vodka Uniform regulations on distillation and the type of containers for storage probably will be decided upon.

Note—Vodka is nothing more than alcohol treated to a highly refined degree with activated carbon or charcoal.

Frauds Against Veterans.

U. S. DISTRICT Judge T. Whitfield Davidson of Dallas, Texas, certainly seems to love the real-estate operators.

He has been hearing charges of frauds against veterans by 27 Dallas home builders, first exposed by this column and later indicted by the justice department, and believe it or not, the judge has been levying token fines that don't even make up for the illegal profit extorted from the veterans. Some of his remarks from the bench, also, have indicated almost brazen partiality toward the real-estate boys

When Roscoe Dodson pleaded guilty to overcharging an ex-GI $1,000 for a home, all he was fined by Judge Davidson for breaking the law was $100. Dodson didn't even have to pay back the overcharge, so he came out $900 to the good on his illegal deal.

Another builder, W. C. Chappell, did even better. He overcharged a veteran $1,500. When he started to plead guilty, Judge Davidson said he would accept a plea of "nolo contendre"—no contest. In the end, Chappell also was fined $100 and was allowed to keep the remaining $1,400 which he had overcharged the veteran.

The judge went up to a $200 fine in one case. He soaked H. Little and L. M. Dabney, real estate operators, $200 each for a $1,350 overcharge against veteran J. C. Jackson. E. T. Swango, whose house was sold to the veteran and who also was implicated, got off with a $1 fine -because the judge said he seemed like such a "fine fellow."

"A veteran returning home after the war became a citizen and a person capable of handling his own affairs," Judge Davidson remarked from the bench. In explaining his leniency toward the real-estate operators, the judge also pointed out that real estate had gone up since the deals were made—so the veterans weren't really losing anything. He didn't say what his attitude would have been if real estate had gone down instead of up.

* * *

President of Home Builders.

OF THE cases in court so far, the only operator who has pleaded not guilty is R. S. Shelburne, former president of the Dallas Home Builders. By strange coincidence, he is also the only operator who has paid the overcharge back to veterans.

This repayment in itself would seem to be a confession of guilt. But when Shelburne saw how the other cases were going, he pleaded not guilty and asked for a jury trial.

Defiantly, Shelburne's lawyers told newsmen they would fight the case to the Supreme Court even if he got fined a three-cent postage stamp Five hours of jury discussion resulted in a hung jury and Judge Davidson adjourned court until October 25—when the rest of the veterans housing cases will be heard before the same jury.

When government attorneys pleaded with the judge to install a new jury panel, he shrugged his shoulders.

"No," replied Judge Davidson, "this jury is all right."

Note—Davidson is the same judge who refused to extradite Texas oilman Freeman Burford when he was indicted in Louisiana in a hot oil case involving the bribery of Louisiana's governor, Dick Leche Leche was sentenced to 10 years in jail, but Burford, the man who bribed him, is still free, due to the fact that Judge Davidson took the position that Texas, though still presumably one of the 48 states, did not have to honor a federal demand to remove Burford from Texas to face trial in Louisiana.

Frankly Speaking

Wonders Never Cease!

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON — This best of all possible worlds can stand some improvements and, according to my spies from all over, steps are being taken. Let us first consider alarm clocks.

Sure, they'll wake you up and send you stumbling in your bare feet to the cold floor. But will they put you in a good humor?

My operative in Guatemala City, Guat., reports that so far as he knows he is the only proprietor in the western hemisphere of an alarm clock that sends him downstairs daily with a smile and a kiss for his wife.

This wonder clock each morning at seven turns on his phonograph, which plays Strauss waltzes. He usually sleeps across the Beautiful Blue Danube, but begins to crack an eye about half way through the Vienna Woods. At this juncture his clock switches on his bedroom lights.

He stays under the blankets for a few more minutes, while his most perfect of timepieces whirs. And at 7:10 a. m., precisely, when he's almost completely awake, a spigot beneath the dial opens automatically and pours him a cup of strong, hot coffee.

Only once has he had any trouble with his combined clock and percolator. That was when he forgot to place a cup beneath the faucet the night before. Made a horrible mess of his rug.

He said he read an advertisement of this good cheer clock in one of the Latin magazines that circulate south of the border and at considerable expense and travail, imported it from Milan. He had his worst moments with the Guatemalan customs agents. They couldn't decide whether he'd bought a clock or a coffee pot and after a fruitless search of the regulations they wanted to send it back to Italy.

Signals Taxi Speed.

MY west coast agent informs me of another boon to long-suffering humanity. Said he was tooling down La Cienega Blvd., in a Los Angeles taxicab at about 40 miles an hour, when the horn went beep-beep-beep. It kept on beeping.

The din was awful. My man shouted, what was the matter? Nothing, said the cabbie. He was disgusted. His revered employers had installed upon the engine a governor arrangement which started the horn to tooting whenever his speedometer hit 40.

Only way to shut off this invitation to the cops to arrest him was to take his foot off the gas. He did so. The horn went silent and my visitor to the west for the first time in his life completed a taxi ride at a sedate and soothing speed.

I must pass on word finally from my New England spy about forthcoming and hitherto secret improvements of the telephone. Turns out that the bosses of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co., were squirming at a hearing in Boston before the Massachusetts public service commission. They wanted to hike their rates? Why? Well, they said, they intended to improve their service.

The commissioners looked at 'em with jaundiced eye and said, How? The N. E. T. and T. moguls had to divulge the details of the new telephone now in the works at the Bell Telephone laboratories. Manufacture of sample models begins next year.

The new telephone has a new kind of dial, which the engineers insist a fellow can see. They also claim it won't, under any circumstance, bite his dialing finger.

This, in itself, is a great improvement, but more important still is a knob at the side. It regulates the loudness of the bell. This makes you master of your fate. Or at least and at long last you can fix it so it won't jangle you out of your skin.

The super phone also is four ounces lighter than the current model. This should be important to ladies, including one related to me by marriage, who holds brief little two-hour phone conversations. Ought to keep their right elbows from getting stiff.

I wake up in the morning,
And the sun shines happily,
But my nagging little worry
Runs downstairs ahead of me.

He follows me around all day,
A most persistent elf.
Until by night I'm very
Very sorry for myself.

I find when I am sleeping
I cannot make him scurry.
My dreams are clouded over
By my nagging little worry.

By prayer and faith I'll coax him
Till he exits tranquilly;
Then my nagging little worry
Will be just a memory!

Dave Boone Says:

IT LOOKS to me like Tom Dewey had better take out more accident insurance or get a guarantee that the engineers on his trains are either Republican or neutral

* * *

He must be convinced by now that what we need right here at home is a stable policy in railroad yards and a determination to attain stated goals when taking a switch.

* * *

Of course, the engineer that jolted that train all over the lot may have thought Tom was referring to him in those charges of "clumsiness, wobbling, and frequent changes of decisions."

Ike Eisenhower was named head of Columbia in June, 1947. He reached the university in May, 1948. He was officially installed this week. It took him longer to complete that trip — it seems to me — than the one across Europe. That's what happens in big-city traffic!

Area Roundup

The Ohio Diary

By IRVING LEIBOWITZ
(News-Journal State Editor)

Did Frank J. Lausche commit political suicide?

Mansfield GOP'ers claim the former Democratic governor ended his public career with his blanket endorsement of President Truman at Akron last week.

Democrats in Richland county, however, see the move as a "reinforcing action" of Democratic unity.

In an unprecedented move, Lausche urged the support of President Truman. It marked the first time in his political career that he had climbed aboard a presidential bandwagon.

The politically shrewd Lausche, who is known to have a sizable following in the Republican ranks, had even side-stepped supporting Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The move brought lightening-like denunciations and commendations from all quarters. In Lausche's own words, "the Ohio race is a series of ups and downs." Only time can evaluate the wisdom of his decision.

Shelby Chest Drive Opens Monday; Goal $10,750

'49 Quota Set Higher Than 1948

Nurse Placed On Full Duty

(By a State Correspondent)

SHELBY — With a goal of $10,750.00 the Community Chest campaign will get under way Monday and continue for five days.

The quota, which exceeds last year's figure by $1,400 will be distributed as follows: Boy Scouts and Cubs, $1,000; charitable hospital care, $1,000; public health league, $2,000; public playground, $1,000; office supplies and help, $250; special emergency fund, $1,000; Girl Scouts and Brownies, $900; Club Jayteen, $700; and the school nurse, $2,400.

The increased budget of the last three boosted the amount required for the quota. Chairman Doty explained that the largest increase of $1,200 for the school nurse resulted from the position being placed on a full time basis.

Last year it had been a part time job. However, school officials have been so pleased with the results of the service among the pupils, the position haas been placed on a full time basis.

One of Ohio's Historical Stories

Growth of Willard Parallels Railroad

By MRS. HARRISON WOLFE
(N-J State Correspondent)

WILLARD—"The best equipped and finest railroad terminal on the Baltimore and Ohio system and probably in the country" was President R. B. White's statement when he and other directors had completed their tour of inspection of the Willard yards.

The recently completed $2,500,000 program of improvement and modernization of the local terminal occasioned the inspection.

This is quite a stretch from the single small frame building which was erected here in 1874, to serve as a telegraph office and waiting room, which rated a place being marked on the train schedule as "Chicago Junction"—much later to be known as Willard, Ohio.

This community, with a population of slightly over 5,000, owes its very existence to the railroad for as far back at 1871. The Baltimore and Ohio purchased several short lines in Ohio with the idea of extending their line to Chicago, Ill.

One of these was the Sandusky, Mansfield and Newark. In October of that year, T. J. Frazier and Robert Henderson began a survey on this line for a point from which to extend the railways westward.

FIRST CHURCH

The first church was organized at Chicago Junction in 1876 and was known as the United Brethren church, with Rev. W. A. Keesey as the first minister. It is now known as the Evangelical United Brethren church.

In the year 1882, with a population of 800, the village was incorporated as Chicago Junction, Ohio. The first officers elected were Samuel Snyder, mayor; Andrew Gullung, marshall; W. B. Keefer, treasurer, and William Miller, clerk.

In 1917, because of the confusion in the postal and shipping departments between Chicago and Chicago Junction, the name of the latter was changed to Willard, Ohio—for Daniel Willard, then president of the B. and O.

MODERN TOWN NOW

This community now boasts of three grade schools, a large modern high school, modern hospital, most up-to-date airport, and a state agricultural experiment station established this year.

The Chamber of Commerce is making plans now for the 75th anniversary celebration to be held next year. Much can be said of the $2,500,000 modernization of the railroad terminal which began about a year and a half ago, but it includes, in brief, the construction of new and larger eastbound and westbound classification yards, including a new two-story brick office building for each yard.

Twelve new floodlight towers were erected, with automatic regulators which turn the lights on and off according to the degree of darkness. An automatic interlocking system has been installed so that freight trains will not have to stop for crew members to throw switches to enter the yards. New stock yards were built.

Car retarders were installed which are used in only one other terminal on the road, the Cumberland yards. The retarders in the Willard terminal are the only ones in the country anchored in concrete. The Teletalk is another addition, which is a communications system covering the entire eastbound yards which connects the yard master, conductor and car retarder operator. The yard master controls the push-button system for station selection and the person called can, in turn, talk back to the yard master. This is one of the first yards in the country to have this type of communication system, according to Shelby O'Neill, terminal train master here.

Further, three engines have radios which are used for person-to-person talking. The yard foreman or yard master is thus able to talk directly to the engineer by means of this two-way radio which has a coverage of about five miles. Six additional units are to be installed in engines here sometime in the future.

H. E. Simpson, vice president in charge of soliciting and handling of freight and traffic service, stated that Willard is the concentration point for products coming from the west. Here, with the aid of the new yards, the cars may be more readily classified for shipment to eastern areas. He estimated that the local yards handle about 55 per cent eastern traffic as against 45 per cent going west.

Galion Plants Are Uneasy

Mayor to Veto New Power Plan

(By a State Correspondent)

GALION—Mayor H. H. Hartmann has indicated he will veto an ordinance passed Oct. 5 by city council granting the Ohio Public Service company a franchise to furnish electric power to two Galion manufacturing plants.

Council okayed a proposal to supply the Galion Iron Works and the Central Ohio Steel Products company electric energy at the last session.

Mayor Hartmann, in a written protest, opposed the council action.

If the mayor follows through with his protest, it will be his third veto on power legislation this year.

He previously vetoed a resolution which adopted the six-point plan of Service-Safety Director John F. Porter to rehabilitate the Galion municipal light plant and also turned thumbs down on an ordinance to purchase not more than 3,000 kilowatt hours from an outside utility to supplement the power generated by the Galion plant.

In his protest, the mayor said: "the giving of a franchise to a foreign power company without any restrictions whatsoever puts that company in competition with your municipal light plant."

Hartmann protested the use of streets and alleys to erect poles and string electric wires to furnish light and power to several factories.

FAVOR PLAN

Several spokesmen for manufacturing plants in the city have gone on record as favoring the new proposal which would, they said, "solve the power dilemma for the present."

A number of local manufacturers have been pressing for a solution to the power controversy. Some plant officials have even expressed dissatisfaction with the slow process the city is taking in trying to solve the problems.

Two company spokesmen said the slowness of the city in bringing about a solution is impeding the growth of their plants. They hinted that "unless a solution is forthcoming in the near future, the companies might be forced to build and expend in another town."

Council will have the issue dumped back into its lap Tuesday night. What action they take can settle the issue or prolong it. In the past they have overridden the mayor's veto but failed to take follow-up action.

Walter White Says—

German Oppressors Losing More Than Their Victims

To an extraordinary degree, the oppressors have been the losers and the oppressed the winners here in Germany so far as moral standards, family life and venereal disease rates are concerned. In some respects this may be the most lasting effect and the chief factor in determining survival for the nazi "master race" and so-called displaced person—the most pathetic group of involuntary nomads the world has ever seen.

In the Latvian, Jewish, Ukrainian and other D. P. camps and groups I have visited a number of inerasible impressions were gathered. One of them is that of the indestructibility of hope in the human breast. This conviction was felt, remarkably enough, in the place where there is infinitely less reason for hope, thanks to the 80th Congress' niggardly legislation which virtually prohibits admission of members of their faith and Catholics. This was, of course, the Jewish camps.

Another vivid impression I gained in the camps of all faiths and places of birth is that of the effect of adversity on the institution we call the family. In all of them I found family ties more closely knit than perhaps they had ever been.

Almost invariably three families totalling from ten to fifteen persons occupied a three room apartment with a communal kitchen and toilet. Here also were to be found an amazingly low illegitimacy rate, due as much to the standards of the displaced persons themselves as it was to the monitoring of the camp officials.

An exultant pride was likewise taken in the usually low incidence of venereal disease, also due as much to the sexual behavior of the inmates as to the medical care provided them.

MORAL CODES LOST

But what Hitler's deliberate campaign to breed as many specimens of the "super race" as possible, with or without benefit of clergy, has done to the Germans is beyond belief. While those they sought to conquer or liquidate have tightened family ties and codes of conduct, what the modern world calls conventions or codes of moral behavior have totally disappeared in most of German life.

An American brought to dinner one evening an attractive, educated daughter of a corporation lawyer who, prior to the war, enjoyed an income of around forty thousand dollars a year.

One of the guests was of German ancestry. The 21-year-old girl therefore spoke with great frankness. She told us that Hitler was wrong only because he started war too soon, that 90 per cent of the Germans believed as she did, that Jews had caused not only World War II but all wars in history, that since 40 per cent of Americans were Germans she could not understand why we had ever fought Germany.

She did not speak with bitterness, only with the assurance that the lies she mouthed were gospel truth. It was when she spoke without any sense of shame whatever of the pattern of sexual behavior she and other German girls practiced that the extent of Hitler's doctrines became most incredible.

American soldiers could buy from the PX things which she and other girls could sell in the black market to obtain money to buy what they wanted. There was not the slightest suggestion of immorality or amorality in her voice; only regret that there are not enough Americans in Germany to go around.

ILLEGITIMACY ACCEPTED

Illegitimacy carries with it not the faintest stigma. Contraction of a venereal disease is apparently considered merely as an occupational hazard of no considerable consequence. The beauty and warmth of family gatherings so eloquently pictured in the novels of Heinrich Mann and other German novelists of the pre-Hitler days seems to have vanished as completely as the bombed buildings of Berlin.

The cigarettes and Schokolade which the Americans can provide has rightly been considered one of the causes for the warmth of the relationships with the frauleins. But one senses and sees that there is far more than the lure of such tidbits—that were there no Americans here with goods unobtainable to the Germans, Hitler's destruction of all moral standards would have created approximately the same result.

Time will tell which group suffers most—oppressor or oppressed. In saying these things, I want to make it clear I am not condemning a people nor implying that the Germans are any more guilty than the Americans who transgress codes of behavior.

What is apparent in Germany today is that the victims of Hitler have been knit by adversity into closer and more healthy units while those who were to be the beneficiaries of his racism have lost, perhaps for generations, concepts and standards which were part of their heritage.

'Kick-Off' on Monday Launches Community Chest Drive

Red Feather Goal Stands At $122,635

Breakfast Will Open Campaign

A "kick-off" breakfast Monday morning in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel will launch this year's Community Chest campaign, with 500 volunteer workers seeking to reach the 1948 quota of $122,635

Serving as hosts for the opening event will be W. A Brandenburg and the Brandenburg Chevrolet company, who have sponsored the affair for the past three years.

Another indication that the drive has been officially opened will be the large white flag, centered with the traditional Red Feather, which will fly from the flag pole in Central park.

Alongside the flagpole at the intersection of Park Avenue west and Main street a large white feather, 20 feet high, has been erected, outlined in neon lights, which will indicate the day-to-day progress of the drive. As contributions are received the white feather will be painted red a little higher on the sign, until an entire red feather will be displayed when the goal has been reached

The sign was erected by Frank Burton, city parks superintendent and the neon lighting was provided by Harold Wise.

QUOTA INCREASED

This year's campaign goal of $122,635 represents an increase of nearly seven per cent over last year's quota. However, instead of the customary request for a full day's pay from each Mansfield worker, officials this year are asking for a contribution of just four hours' pay.

Willis O. Carto, campaign chairman, feels that with increased living costs, a full day's pay is too much to ask. Campaign leaders expect that more contributions will be received this year than in the past by requesting smaller amounts.

Opening Monday morning's program, which will begin promptly at 8:30 a. m., will be invocation, led by Msgr. R. C. Goebel of St. Peter's Catholic church.

Greetings will be extended by W. A. Brandenburg, the host, followed by group singing of campaign songs, written by Paul Endriss and in charge of Major William Jones and Earl Black, pianist

Guests at the affair will be introduced by Mr. Carto, campaign chairman, and H V Tom, president and manager of the Zanesville Credit Bureau, will be guest speaker

REPORT READY

One of the first reports on the campaign's progress will be made by Ruhland D. Isaly, chairman of the special gifts committee, to be followed by a talk, "Everybody Gives—Everybody Benefits," by W. E. Slabaugh jr., president of the Community Chest.

Benediction will be pronounced by Rev. Matthew Madden, pastor of First Congregational church. Miss Janet Kelly is making arrangements for the breakfast.

Serving as ushers for the affair will be eleven Girl Scouts from troop 24, of which Mrs. Sam Theaker is troop leader, and ten girls from the YWCA.

Jack V. Miller is serving as chairman of the publicity committee for the campaign, assisted by Frank Burton, Floyd Kautz, Ralph Shaffer, Larry Hess, Ken Woodman, G. H. Richner and Harry Lytle.

Wheat Price Bogs Down

CHICAGO—(AP)—Wheat bogged down Saturday on the board of trade in an attempt to carry through with Friday's strength. Prices ruled steady in the start, but toward the close selling pressure increased and the bread cereal fell back. Losses were small.

Corn also worked a bit lower after showing some firmness in early dealings. Both wheat and corn appeared to be encountering some profit-taking Cash corn prices were about steady with yesterday's range.

Soybeans provided the only real strength through to the close.

Oats and rye were little changed in a light trade. Lard slumped on profit-taking after yesterday's sharp upturn.

Wheat closed ⅜-⅞ lower, December $2.26⅞-$2.27, corn was ⅛-⅞ lower, December 1.39⅞-$1.40, oats were unchanged to 3-8 higher, December 74⅞, rye was 1 to 1¼ higher, December $1.71, soybeans were 1½-2 3-8 higher, November $2.43-$2.43¼, and lard was 33 cents lower to 5 cents a hundred pounds higher, October $19.22.

Young Navy Doctor Will Fight Leprosy on Pacific Isle

Tiny Pacific Island Scene Of Endeavor

Officer Volunteers For Difficult Task

HONOLULU —(AP)— A modest, 26-year-old navy doctor has set out for Tinian island in the Marianas to start the first leprosy control effort in the Pacific trust territory.

Lieut. (J. C.)Jack W. Millar of Palo Alto, Calif., volunteered for the assignment on tiny Tinian island where the navy is completing construction of a temporary leprosarium with facilities for treating 100 patients, natives of the Marianas, Marshalls, Carolines, Palaus and Yap.

Until now about their only treatment was to be segregated as outcasts by their neighbors.

In preparation for his new job, the young doctor spent a month and a half on Molokai in Hawaii, working with Dr. Norman R. Sloan, director of the famed Kapaulapa leprosy settlement.

Dr. Millar believes the islands of the trust territory provide a fertile field in the treatment of leprosy.

"I don't know how many lepers there are in the islands," he said, "but I think the number will exceed 500 and may possibly be as high as a thousand."

Extensive clinical diagnosis of cases on the 150 populated islands has not been made, he said, but there are 60 known cases on Yap, another nine on Guam, and some on Saipan.

In all, there are 50,000 natives on the Pacific islands, which cover an area of approximately 2,000,000 square miles.

SMALL POPULATION

The most heavily populated island is Truk, former Japanese naval stronghold. It has more than 10,000 inhabitants; Saipan and Ponape each have about 5,000.

Tinian has no native population It was a B-29 base during the war and is now occupied by only a small naval force.

With two naval medical corpsmen working with him, Dr Millar said "We shall study all types of leprosy in all stages. Our work will be both experimental and practical."

Dr. Millar has no fear of contracting the disease.

"Leprosy is not easily transmitted," he explained. "Medical science has learned that it is a disease of childhood and can be contracted only after a long period of contact. Transmission even by actual innoculation has not been extensive."

"Once a case has been arrested, the patient will be returned to his home island," he said "Then at frequent intervals he will undergo a check to see that the disease does not recur."

These checks will be made, in most cases, by native medical practitioners, who are to be trained for their work.

Leprosy, the doctor said is of the same family as tuberculosis Under a microscope the bacilli of the two diseases look almost identical.

Death among lepers is usually caused by tuberculosis or by an obstruction in breathing not by leprosy itself he said. When a patient's breathing becomes impaired, he often contracts chronic bronchitis, which develops into secondary pneumonia.

Among the weapons the young doctor will use to fight the disease are sulfone drugs—promin, diasone and promizole—and sulphriton, a drug developed by the British.

IN ANGRY MOOD—Baby Sitter Mildred Schmidt, 18, looks peeved as she sits in a New York police station answering questions about the disappearance of herself and $2,300 from home of Solomon Rauff, West New York, N. J. She admits taking the money from a cookie jar, buying a car and going on a round of night clubs with a sailor in Boston, Buffalo and Detroit. Arriving home with $3, she found police waiting.—Int'l.

John Garfield's Riding High, On the Loose

By HOWARD C. HEYN

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— John Garfield has it all figured out:

"Screen acting is my business. But I get my kicks on Broadway."

Just like that. Movies for money, the stage for fun. He's a pretty independent boy these days because he feels he has earned the right to ride a little high.

He put in seven years under studio contract (Warner Bros.). In his second year, just after he became a star, he went back to Broadway, against a flood of advice. Finally he cut loose from his contract altogether, to make "Body and Soul" on his own.

"I really got a lecture when I quit," he said. "They told me I'd take a dive. They went years back and cited Charlie Ray. Well, I'm not Charlie Ray. When I lose the impulse to try something different, something I'm sure is for me, that's when I'll retire."

So far he's been right. "Body and Soul" was anything but a flop. It's said that Garfield's share ran close to $400,000. He and his company (Roberts Productions) have just finished another, "Force of Evil," about the numbers racket, and John says there will be more.

"I guess I'm lucky. I'm in a position to do what I want to do. If a part doesn't interest me I won't take it. I'm a ham, and I'm not ashamed of it.

JOHN GARFIELD

Garfield reportedly got $150,000 for his role in "Gentlemans Agreement," and Fox is said to have offered him $250,000 a year if he'd stay there. He wouldnt.

"My friends said I was crazy when I took that 'Gentleman's Agreement' part. It was the third lead. I did it because I wanted to do it; because it reflected views with which I agreed. I would have done it for any money, even if it had been a bit part.'

Does he run around doing parts for pratically no money? Well, yes, he does; every once in a while. Right in his currently confident character was his thumbs-down on "Streetcar Named Desire." Garfield said Irene Selznick wouldnt meet his price, which was plenty high.

So he went into "Skipper Next to God,' the Experimental theater's success, at $80 a week. Minimum scale.

John likes his present setup in Roberts Productions, an independent company composed of Garfield, Producer R. B. Roberts and Abe Polonsky, writer-director.

"I want just enough connection with Production to see that our pictures are made t. way I like 'em made," said John. "I don't want to monkey with commercial details."

Garfield says he won't appear in all his own pictures, and he'll continue to work for other people. Right now he's starred in "Rough Sketch" for Columbia, because the story appeals to him. Next he wants to do a play in New York.

"My father used to say that actors should be bums," John observed. "Pop meant on the loose, like old-time printers and reporters. Well, I'm on the loose now, and I hope to stay that way."

2nd ACCIDENT FATAL

Heavy Vote Registration Unexplained

State Party Chiefs Don't Know Answer

By H. H. DAUGHERTY

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Whether Democrats or Republicans will benefit by the record-breaking vote registration for the November election was a topic of conversation in political circles last week.

The consensus was only the results of the voting will answer the question.

Democrat State Chairman Eugene H. Hanhart and Republican State Chairman Fred H Johnson were coy in their analysis of the heavy registration

Hanhart said his reaction was "that the Democratic party always has benefitted from a heavy registration," but explained it may have been the result of local issues in which there was keen voter interest or the result of special efforts to get voters to quality themselves to vote. "We won't know until the election," he said.

Johnson said he didn't see anything wrong with the heavy registration, and insisted he didn't know the answer.

Declining to be quoted direct, he agreed the high registration in this presidential year may be the normal increase over that of 1940 and that it may represent the normal flow of new eligible voters which has accumulated since 1940 but which was not reflected in the 1944 presidential election year because Ohio had over 800,000 persons in the armed service at that time.

The high registration is harder to diagnose because of the apparent apathy of the voters in the campaign Political observers insist interest has lagged far behind that shown in several previous presidential campaigns

One possible reason for the heavy increase in registration in the industrial centers was the effort made by organized labor to have their membership qualified to vote Similar efforts were made in various Roosevelt campaigns, and the results certainly accrued to the Democrats That bears out Hanhart's assertion that Democrats generally benefit by heavy registration.

Democrat leaders anticipate impetus being given their campaign by the visit of President Truman to the state next Monday in Cincinnati, Dayton and Akron. Several rear platform short speeches are expected to be made also as the President crosses the state.

Whether Mr. Truman will make a subsequent visit to the state before Nov 2 for one or more major speeches has not yet been determined It is known however that state Democrat leaders are anxious to have him speak in Cleveland and possibly Toledo during the closing days of the campaign

Uncle Sam's Worried, Too

Big-Time Moonshiners Alarm Distillers

NEW YORK — (AP) — There's still plenty of moonshiners in them thar hills. Plenty in the big cities, too.

They're making a postwar recovery that has the legitimate liquor people up in arms. And Uncle Sam's revenuers — doing their best with a drastically trimmed budget — are kept hopping.

Modern moonshining is a far cry from the pungent-smelling little old stills hidden back in the piney hills, or the bathtub hooch plants of prohibition days

It's a streamlined big-time operation now. Inter-state syndicates of illegal distillers use trucks and cars by the hundreds, fast planes, modern chemistry. One operator in the south not long ago was even reported using a helicopter to reach his almost inaccessible still.

The legal liquor men estimate that as much as one-fourth of the distilled liquor consumed in this country last year was illicitly produced. That would mean American tipplers are downing some 45,000,000 gallons of moonshine a year, conservatively speaking.

The price of this mountain dew, of course, varies considerably. Delivered young and raw in five-gallon cans, it may bring only $2 a gallon in the backwoods

But when slightly aged, flavored with a lash of good legal whiskey and bottled with counterfeit labels and tax stamps, it often sells for $10 a gallon in town.

ESTIMATE DIFFICULT

That case of "holiday bargain" liquor some friend of yours bought last Christmas for $10 under the legitimate price may well have been doctored-up hooch—even if it bore legal-looking labels of a well-known brand

Just how big the moonshining business has grown is difficult to estimate in dollars. U.S. alcohol tax unit men say the only way it could be figured with any reasonable accuracy would be to persuade the bootleggers to volunteer the information.

However, F E M. Whiting, president of the Licensed Beverage Industries estimates that the moonshiners and bootleggers deprived this country of $650,000,000 in unpaid federal and state taxes in fiscal 1948.

He says this figure is based on the capacity of illegal stills seized during the period. Tax enforcement officers think the estimate is high. They're confident that even with their much-reduced manpower, they're keeping illicit stills under much better control than that.

Legitimate distillers naturally unhappy that moonshiners are taking a fat slice out of their potential profits, stress such tax loss figures in their argument that federal excise levies on liquor are far too steep.

When the public has to pay $9 a gallon to Uncle Sam, plus state taxes, on every gallon of legal spirits, millions of otherwise law-abiding citizens are going to turn to Bootleg Joe, according to the liquor men.

Here it is! A long look ahead!
The modern design for '49
new Hudson

Come in and see the new Hudson—the lowest-built car on the highway, with beauty, riding qualities, comfort and safety only possible because of a new "step-down" design, offered by no other automobile!

Only once in a blue moon does a car step so far ahead that it is a protected investment in motor-car value' You are invited to see just such a car—the New Hudson with "The modern design for '49"—and for years to come!

Here is truly streamlined beauty—a stunning combination of free-flowing, low-built lines that develop naturally out of a recessed floor which is the key to a basically new and exclusive design principle The New Hudson is the only car you step down into

The development of a "step-down" zone in an exclusive all steel Monobilt body-and-frame* permits Hudson to build the lowest car on the highway—only five feet from ground to top—while maintaining more interior head room than in any mass-produced car built today!

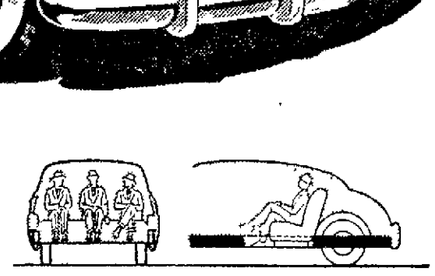
But streamlined beauty isn't the whole story of Hudson's modern design

Hudson has a hug-the-road way of going on every conceivable kind of highway. The way in which this car takes even the sharpest curves makes it a "stand-out" for roadability in any year!

These remarkable riding qualities are largely due to the fact that the New Hudson provides the lowest center of gravity in any American stock car—yet road clearance is ample! It is a widely recognized fact that the lower to the ground a car can be built, the more stability it will have and the safer it will be.

Such a delightful conformity to the road, coupled with the protection of riding encircled by a sturdy box-section steel frame, gives to everyone who rides in a New Hudson a grand feeling of safe well-being' This feeling is further enhanced by the ease with which this car is operated, and by the restful quiet with which Hudson glides along—thanks to the superb sound control engineered into this advanced automobile.

See "The modern design for '49" today' Come in and let us show you the many advantages of Hudson's fabulous "step-down" design principle.



HUDSON FLOORS are recessed down within the frame (as shown above), full-height seats are lowered, so you get ample head room in this car with the new, lower center of gravity.

YOU RIDE down within a base frame (as shown above), and rear seats are positioned ahead of the rear wheels so that full body width becomes available for wonderfully roomy seats Box-section steel girders completely encircle and protect the passenger compartment

TRY AUTOMATIC gear shifting in forward speeds as provided by Hudson's Drive-Master transmission—by far the easiest of all ways to drive You can accelerate as long and as fast as you like in pickup gear, then lift your toe momentarily, and you're in high The shift into high comes only when you are ready' Button control on the instrument panel provides instant change to conventional driving if ever desired Drive-Master transmission is optional on all New Hudsons at small extra cost

*Trade-mark and patents pending.

The only car you step down into NEW Hudson

Mrs. Kasenkina's Story—No. 22

Starts On Flight To Escape Red Net

By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
(Edited By Isaac Don Levine)

Only two days remained until the scheduled sailing of the Pobeda, which was to take me back to Russia. I was like a person being swept by a tide out into the open sea. Although I was at the very shore, I could find no anchorage.

The evening of Wednesday, July 28th, I telephoned the Russian language newspaper, the Novoye Russkoye Slovo, and asked for the editor. Perhaps I was influenced in this by the act of Igor Gouzenko, my compatriot in Canada, when he went to the Ottawa newspaper in his critical hour, as I had learned from seeing "The Iron Curtain."

Without identifying myself and disclosing the object of my call, I inquired if the editor, Mr. Mark Weinbaum, was in the office. I was told that he had left, but would be at his desk the next day.

Although I knew the paper was anti-communist and stood for democracy and freedom, I asked if there were any communists around the place.

Thursday morning I cautiously made my way to the offices of Mr. Weinbaum, who received me instantly. He understood my situation as soon as I nervously recited to him a few salient facts.

He was the first man I had met in the United States to inspire me with confidence. He suggested that Vladimir Zenzinov, a free-lance Russian journalist, would be in a position to give time to my rescue. I had never heard of Zenzinov, although he had a high reputation as revolutionist in Czarist days. Mr. Weinbaum assured me that I would be in safe hands. After telephoning Mr. Zenzinov, he sent me to his home on Riverside Drive.

I knew I was walking a tightrope by establishing contacts with anti-communist elements. Mr. Zenzinov showed himself as sympathetic to my plight as his friend the editor. The circumstances under which Mr. Zenzinov lived in one room did not bespeak affluence.

I poured out my heart to him, and he told me that he was sure arrangements could be made to put me in a safe place. He described to me the work of the Tolstoy Foundation to aid refugees from Soviet oppression and the farm which was operated by Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, the favorite daughter of the great Russian writer. It seemed an ideal hide-out and haven.

Mr. Zenzinov got in touch with Countess Tolstoy at her office in New York, and that afternoon we went down for an interview. Alexandra Tolstoy, too, displayed the tenderest sympathy for me. At last, I felt, I was among people who understood me, who had bonds with America, and who could guide me to a new life.

It was arranged that I continue living with the Porojniakovs until Saturday morning, when I would leave for the pier of the Pobeda. But instead of going to the boat, I would go to Zenzinov's place and he would then accompany me to the Reed Farm of the Tolstoy Foundation some 20 miles out of New York.

★

Friday evening, the night before my scheduled sailing, Porojniakov came home from the consulate, where he served as secretary, unusually early. I was jittery and suspicious. He looked over the bundles and the suitcases in my room, and asked me how many heavy pieces I had sent off to the express company. I was wondering if my surreptitious visits to the anti-Soviet Russians had been spotted.

I retired late that night. As was my habit, I went into the kitchen to get something out of our common refrigerator for a snack. Usually I had tea, sometimes a glass of milk.

I was known as a light sleeper. The slightest noise would awaken me. I had the reputation of never being late at school. That night I slept like a drugged person. Not once did I wake up. And when I rose in the morning, my head was as heavy as lead. I ascribed my condition to my nervous tension.

When I emerged from my room, Porojniakov was already up and about, an unusual procedure for him. He stared at me intently and then called my attention to a couple of red marks on my right arm. I looked at them in astonishment, not having been aware of them before.

"Oh, it's just nerves, must be a rash," I remarked, dismissing the matter. At that time nothing else could have entered my mind.

It was only many days later, when I was already recovering from my injuries in the Roosevelt hospital, that my experiences during that night assumed a sinister significance. The note of Molotov to the United States ambassador was read to me, in which the Soviet foreign minister had put special emphasis on the cause of the spots on my arm as they were exhibited to the press while I was held in the Soviet consulate. I then recalled my condition during the night of July 30.

Molotov accused my imaginary abductors of "violently administering a narcotic substance to Kasenkina clearly with the purpose of weakening her will."

This fantastic invention provided a clue to the mystery of those marks on my arm. If Porojniakov had slipped some drug into my food, inducing deep sleep, it would have been no problem for him to enter my room and administer a couple of hypodermic injections. After all, in the show trials of the Great Purge the official Soviet records cite evidence of the NKVD use of such methods.

Came the critical morning of July 31. I bade goodbye to Porojniakov, whose wife was in the country, and left by cab for the pier. Porojniakov said that he would be at the boat later.

On the way I had fears of possible pursuers. I proceeded to Zenzinov's apartment where he awaited me. My tension must have been near the breaking point.

★

Most of my hand luggage I left in Mr. Zenzinov's place, where it is still reposing at this writing, before proceeding to the Tolstoy farm. The suggestion was made that I spend the week end in a New York hotel, but this terrified me. I wanted to get out of New York as quickly as possible.

Nearly all my savings had been sunk in articles which were at that moment being loaded onto the Soviet vessel. Mr. Zenzinov and I traveled by motor bus to the farm which was to be my shelter.

When I arrived at the restful Reed Farm, to be welcomed by the gracious Alexandra Tolstoy, I thought that my woes had come to an end.

(Tomorrow: Reed Farm and what Mrs. Kasenkina found there.)

Trade Barrier Between East and West Europe Breaking Up

Soviet Bloc Sells Goods To the West

ECA Aides Hope For More Deals

WASHINGTON — (AP) — For the time being at least, the trade block between east and west Europe seems to be breaking up.

Goods are again being offered by the eastern European nations, dominated by Russia, to the western Europeans being helped by us.

East-west trade had dried up to so small a trickle last year that government world-trade experts feared Moscow meant to sew up eastern Europe into a Soviet bloc that would be cut off from the rest of the world.

That could be serious for the Economic Cooperation administration (ECA), the Marshall planners. ECA figures that unless west Europe can buy in the Russian satellite nations it will cost us another $5,000,000,000 to prime the European economy on top of the $17,000,000,000 the U. S. has agreed in principle to spend over the four years of the Marshall Plan.

Here are some of the deals ECA trade experts have heard about recently:

Hungary is offering to sell agricultural machinery to western Europe and has offered $1,500,000 worth of freight cars to the Anglo-American zone of Germany. Both are worth their weight in gold in Europe.

Yugoslavia is offering more timber than it can find immediate takers for, and timber is desperately needed for houses, factories, schools, mine props and what not. She is also back in the market with copper, zinc and lead which European factories need. ECA hears the Yugoslavs are even talking of paying the British something for British-dug mines which they have nationalized.

BULGARIA SELLS TO ITALY

Bulgaria has been selling her most important export, tobacco, to Italy.

Poland is offering more timber than was expected. Her coal shipments to west Europe continue to go up. Announced Polish coal offerings are expected to cover west Europe's needs for imported coal by 1951.

Czechoslovakia is selling a wide range of consumer goods in the west, only a limited amount to Russia. The Czechs' largest trade is with Switzerland. Czech exports run from glass to shoes.

The Czechs have one good legacy from the war. The Germans moved a good deal of new machinery into the country, and now the Czechs are making good use of it.

Commerce department experts here say Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia appear to have more freedom in their selling than Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary.

They suspect that all exports from the satellite nations have overall approval from Moscow. They also suspect that more freedom has been granted the Poles, Czechs and Yugoslavs because the communists have an uncertain hold on those countries. If that's true, they say, the level of living must go up there or the people will be hard to control.

One thing that might influence the Soviet bloc to trade with western Europe is that it needs the machines made by the trained, industrial workers of the west. To buy in the west the Russian bloc must sell there.

On the other hand, west Europe has always got much of its bread grains, tobacco, timber and minerals from the Soviet satellites. If that trade should dry up west Europe would have to find new places to buy and sell—which ECA says would cost us another $5,000,000,000 in four years.

GETS DECORATION

Fear Harms, Doctor Says

RUTHERFORD, N. J.—(AP)—In many patients, fear can actually aggravate a disease, Dr. Henry A. Davidson writes in Medical Economics, a business magazine for physicians.

"A positive fighting spirit" may be "wiped out if fear gets loose" in the doctor's office, and many physicians by words and actions try to prevent fears from arising.

"When the patient feels a positive assurance that he is in safe hands, the solace he gets does something to his blood pressure, his heart rate, his stomach chemistry, his intestinal mobility," Dr. Davidson said.

A simple thing like keeping instruments behind opaque doors instead of in open cases is a help, he added.

YOUTH FATALLY INJURED

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — John Snow, 19, was injured fatally Saturday when an automobile hurtled through a highway guard rail and rolled down a 50-foot embankment. Three companions were injured.

Aid to Diabetics

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A new-type insulin has been developed that will reduce injections for severe cases of diabetes from five-a-day to one, according to Dr. Priscilla White, a Boston specialist.

The new insulin, she said, is called NPH-50 and will be on the market in about six months.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

'Life With Father' Sequel Makes First Bow This Week

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK—(AP)—The eagerly awaited sequel to "Life With Father," called, of course, "Life With Mother," opens this week. A Shubert operetta and a comedy by Ruth Gordon brings the week's premieres to three. Chronologically: "The Leading Lady," by Ruth Gordon, opens Monday at the National theater. It is about a famous actress of the early 1900's

Ruth Gordon

Miss Gordon is starred and her famous husband, Garson Kanin, directed. Donald Oenslager designed the single set and Mainbocher designed the costumes. Victor Samrock and William Fields are the producers. Supporting Miss Gordon in the cast are John Carradine, Ian Keith, Mildred Dunnock, Ethel Griffies, Wesley Addy and Sonya Sorrell.

"My Romance," a Shubert operetta, opens Tuesday at the Shubert theater. It's a musical version by Roland Leigh of Edward Sheldon's "Romance," originally produced on Broadway in 1913. Sigmund Romberg is the composer. Fred Kelly is choreographer. Sets are by Watson Barratt. Cast includes Anne Jeffreys, Lawrence Brooks, Luella Gear, Doris Patston, Leroi Operti.

"Life with Mother," by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, who also wrote "Life with Father," not to mention the Pulitzer prize winner, "State of the Union," opens Wednesday at the Empire theater. It's the same handsome house wherein the original paternal comedy remained during most of its eight-year, all-time record run.

It's based on Clarence Day's parental reminiscences and is set a few years after "Life with Father."

Guthrie McClintic is the director. Donald Oenslager fashioned the costumes and one set, the other to be used, the same which served so sturdily through the fabulous engagement of the original, is by Stewart Chaney. The cast includes co-author Lindsay and his wife, Dorothy Stickney and Ruth Hammond, A. H. VanBpren, Gladys Hurlbut, David Frank and Robert Antoine. Oscar Serlin is the producer.

Magician Saves Lives

Highway Houdini Pulls Rabbits, Safety Slogans Out of Same Hat

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—A cop who pulls safety slogans and rabbits out of the hat is applying magic to saving young lives on Kentucky streets and highways.

State Police Lt. Lee Allen Estes, a master magician and ventriloquist, tours the school circuit with a truck load of tricks that carry home his safety warnings.

He operates on the theory that a lesson must be heard to be learned. As a country patrolman 12 years ago, he watched children yawn through a safety lecture. He convinced his chief he could make the words stick by illustrating them with a trick.

Estes is more than a suitcase magician. He carries his show in a two-ton truck. It requires two hours to set the stage for it and an hour to tear it down.

The lecture comes first in Estes' school program. He times it to last only as long as little ears will listen to admonitions that kids should not double up on a bicycle, snitch rides on trucks or autos, or put their arms or heads out the window of vehicles while riding.

Just before the Houdini of the highways "loses" his audience, he digs into his tricks. His favorite gag is to get two volunteers from the audience and feed them crackers. They are told to shout "safety first" six times and cracker dust flies with every shout.

Another of the lieutenant's popular tricks involves a chalk-drawn pig on a small slate. He draws the pig and then makes it turn its head from side to side, the idea being that kids should always look both ways before crossing a street.

During his talk, he tears to bits a paper cone. When the operation is completed, he drops the remains and a banner with a safety slogan is formed.

After emptying eight trunks loaded with similar stunts, Estes brings on a pop-eyed, big-mouthed dummy wearing a state police uniform to finish the show. The dummy is Willie Talk, who sasses like Charley McCarthy but jabbers safety talk that the kids listen to with glee.

Estes estimates he has carried his magic safety show to more than a million kids and adults in traveling 120,000 miles.

He has staged request shows in outlying states, including the Carolinas, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and the District of Columbia, but he declines vaudeville and night club offers.

He points out that Kentucky's record for accidental deaths of children on highways is at the bottom of the list for all states and says he likes to feel he has played some part in that.

Ohio Woman Dies In Traffic Mishap

KENT—(AP)—Mrs. Belle Belknap, of near Mantua O., was killed Saturday in a double accident, and her husband, James G., 36, was injured.

The Belknaps' car was involved in a minor collision with a truck at Suffield, south of here at the intersection of routes 43 and 224. The husband said his wife fainted and was being carried off the road when a truck entered the intersection and hit both of them.

"WAIT A MINUTE," Mother would say whenever someone came in to play. "Take a few cookies along."

Nobody left the house empty-handed. Tramps feasted royally on the back doorstep. ("Be sure the coffee's hot. Spread the butter thick," Mother would whisper. "He looks hungry.")

Clothes went out of the house in a steady procession—shoes to one big family, warm coats to the missionary box. ("Sew the buttons tight. Put a nickel in the pocket.")

Once a year Mother packed a big bundle for the Kentucky mountains—new baby clothes, the finest flannels, affectionately briar-stitched. "These clothes will be handed down from mother to mother," she would explain gently. "They must be good to start out."

Mother never had an engagement ring. She never had a fur coat. Her furniture was old and worn. Her wood cook stove was balky. But there was always money to spare for people in trouble—there was always an extra bed for someone sick, there was always an extra place at the table, always "just a little something" for the guest to take home.

When the Community Chest came to town, Dad and Mother were having hard times. Money wasn't easy that year. I saw them studying the checkbooks, adding up the bills. But I knew how it would come out. I can hear the Chest man yet.

"That's a most generous gift, sir. Are you sure—" he looked around the room, a little hesitantly—"Are you sure you can spare it?"

And I remember Mama. "It will be a sorry world," she said, "if the day ever comes that people forget to SHARE!"

YOU REMEMBER MAMA. You remember the aunt who helped put you through school, the neighbor who came in and nursed you when you were sick, the man who went out of his way to do you a kindness when you were having a tough time. Remember them all, won't you—and pass along your blessings—when your Community Chest neighbor comes to call this year?

Campus Charms Local Students

By ANN SCHOENMAN
(Assistant Society Editor)

The leaves are falling and pumpkin pie is baking in the oven. That further sign of autumn—the annual trek toward the American college campus—is almost complete.

The Mansfield News-Journal society department has planned a series of stories and pictures about several of the colleges in Ohio. This is designed to give everybody an idea what campus life is like.

This week Wittenberg captures the spotlight with its rolling hills and picturesque surroundings.

The history of Wittenberg is interesting in the fact that it was first founded in 1844 at Wooster, O. Rev. Ezra Keller, Hagerstown, Md., became the first president and in May, 1844, classes commenced with four students in theology.

MORE ABOUT SPRINGFIELD

After four months at Wooster the college packed bag and baggage and moved to Springfield.

On Nov. 2, 1845, school opened its doors to an enrollment of nine students. Now Wittenberg's halls are filled with 1,475 men and women from all over the world.

This Lutheran college was first introduced to coeducation in 1874 with one woman student in attendance. Today, young women normally comprise about 40 per cent of the student body.

Wittenberg is built on the highest point in the corporate limits of the city of Springfield. The campus still has a great number of native trees, including oak, sugar-maple, elm, ash, hickory, sycamore, locust and ironwood.

Rees Edgar Tulloss, well known in Mansfield, is now the president of the vine covered school in southern Ohio.

SEVEN FRATERNITIES

There are seven social fraternities offered to young men at Wittenberg. The women can choose to wear the pin representing any one of six sororities.

Professional fraternities have been organized for all of the following subjects: forensics, dramatics, education, music, chemistry, biology, the romance languages, psychology, journalism, German, business administration, classics, English and political science.

Wittenberg college maintains three dormitories, Ferncliff Hall and Woodland Hall for young women, and Myers Hall for young men.

A few of the traditions carried out at Wittenberg include the Homecoming Queen and her attendants. Prizes are given for the best house decorations at this time also. When the residents of Springfield hear the Victory bell on Myers Hall ringing, they know that Wittenberg's athletic team has scored another conquest.

SWEETHEART SERENADE

When a girl on the campus receives the fraternity pin belonging to the "light of her life," his fraternity brothers go to her window and begin their Sweetheart Serenades.

These are just a few of the many customs that make campus life interesting at Wittenberg.

The campus has grown from the original plot of ground, seventeen acres given to the college by the citizens of Springfield, to the present extent of 55 acres.

ATHLETICS VARIED

For any athletic minded student, Wittenberg offers a selection of football, basketball, baseball, track, swimming, golf, tennis, and an intramural program. This program lists schedules in softball, golf, tennis, badminton, basketball, volleyball, table tennis, touch football, track, swimming, indoor baseball, horseshoes, handball, and foul shooting. At the present time trophies are awarded to the winning group in each sport.

The honorary societies at Wittenberg, made possible for ambitious and deserving students, are Arrow and Mask, based on character, leadership, scholarship, and service; Blue Key, national honor fraternity for senior men who have excelled in leadership, scholarship, and in activities on the campus; Skull and Chain, composed of outstanding men selected at the end of their junior year, has as its purpose "the creation of a greater Wittenberg"; Pick and Pen, for junior men, selected for scholarship, leadership, character, and interest in college activities; Alpha Lambda Delta for freshmen women, having an average of 3.5; Phi Eta Sigma grants membership to freshmen men who have received a point average of 3.5.

Wittenberg opened its doors to students this year on Sept. 7 and will close them June 6, 1949, at 9:30 a. m., when commencement exercises take place for the graduation class of 1949.

Miss Licthenberger, left, junior, Miss Miller and Miss Weaver, junior, standing, are shown in the Alpha Xi Delta house listening to the final results of one of the World Series games which Cleveland lost. Miss Weaver is the sports chairman of the club for this year. All the girls are active members of the sorority on the campus.

Country Club Is Scene of Dinner Party

The Pleasant Valley Garden club held a dinner party Friday night for members and their husbands at the Westbrook country club. Twenty-eight persons attended including three guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Finefrock, jr., and V. F. Kirby.

Mrs. Robert Gowing was chairman of the evening. She was assisted by Mrs. Lowell Bailet, and Mrs. John Meifert.

The table was decorated with chrysanthemums and marigolds in fall colors. After dinner, bridge was played.

Card prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Finefrock jr., Mrs. Karl Johnson, Mrs. Meifert, Richard Shaw and Robert Gowing.

A book on floral arrangements was presented to Mrs. Gowing, who is moving with her family to Arlington, Va., in two weeks.

Beta Kappa Tau Assists With Stamps

After one year's work, the Beta Kappa Tau sorority has been able to purchase a 16 mm. projector for the Richland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium. The patients at the sanatorium have enjoyed this sound projector for two weeks.

A year ago members of the sorority visited at all the stores in Mansfield asking if they could place jars in the establishment in order for patrons to drop unwanted tax stamps in them.

Now each girl has three to five different stores from which they collect stamps. They make their rounds once a month, or every week if necessary.

The sorority members are going to continue this project in order to buy and rent films for the patients at the sanatorium.

Three per cent of the amount of stamps sent in to Columbus is returned to the organization for use in their philanthropic work.

A place has been set up at the sanatorium for any of the citizens of Mansfield who wish to contribute stamps for this cause.

The patients at the sanatorium, who are able to be up and around, count the stamps for the members to send in to the state capital.

Shown in the above picture are members of the Beta Kappa Tau sorority with Kenneth McGregor, a patient at the Richland county Tuberculosis Sanatorium. Mr. McGregor is preparing to show films on the new 16 mm projector which the sorority purchased for them by collecting sales tax stamps in the stores of Mansfield. Mrs. Robert Ernest, left, Mrs. Carol Kelly and Mrs. James Elliott, general chairman of the sales tax collections, watch as he prepares the machine.

St. Peter's Kiddy Kollege Is Haven For Pre-School Child

By MARIAN WEST

DOES little Johnny or Janey get in your hair? Do you wish you had a haven in which to shelter your little tyke from mischief, for at least a few hours out of the day? But most important of all, if you're a working mother—then St. Peter's Kiddy Kollege, South Mulberry street, is the answer to your supplications. Here under supervised guidance, your child will find a normal and happy environment. He will learn to work and play with others of his own age group and come to respect and adhere to directives.

From either 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. or 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. your five-year-old will be completely content. Every week day he will find companions there who are partaking in the same pleasures and tasks as he.

Sister Firmina, an earnest personality of infinite understanding, greets your child in the morning and begins the day which consists of "everything from soup to nuts," according to her. She has been here in Mansfield for two years out of the "college's" four years of existence.

A graduate of the College of St. Francis at Joliet, Ill., she taught the first and second grades in Chicago. When asked how the children of Mansfield responded to learning in comparison to the children of Chicago, she said:

"The youngsters there were a bit more precise and exact in their efforts. This might be attributed to the fact that parents there were extremely conscientious about their children's learning, and assigned them tasks at home similar to those performed in school."

The setting of the Kiddy Kollege is a large cheerful basement room which gives the children more than ample "stamping ground." The room is divided into sections with each portion serving a separate function.

The entrance is a playroom where rhythm work is performed. They sing and dance here, and participate in games which require spacious quarters. The walls are lined with shelves containing books and games of every imaginable variety.

Next is a small living room arrangement consisting of a rug, fireplace and miniature rocking chairs and easy chairs. Dolls and carriages are conveniently placed, and a small standing bowling alley flanks one side.

The following division is the workroom. Here, at a horseshoe-shaped table, the children perform artcrafts. Clay modeling, water coloring and cutting are only a few.

"They like particularly to work with their hands. Anything that's manual fascinates them," Sister Firmina commented.

Flowers, plants and pictures decorate the entire Kollege. A lively brightness predominates, intoning an ideal atmosphere for children.

Sister Firmina's morning class contains 13 pupils and there are fifteen in her afternoon session. The small number makes it possible for each child to receive individual attention. But not to the extent that they become dependent.

"Let them do things for themselves. The more we do for them the less responsible they'll be," Sister Firmina asserted.

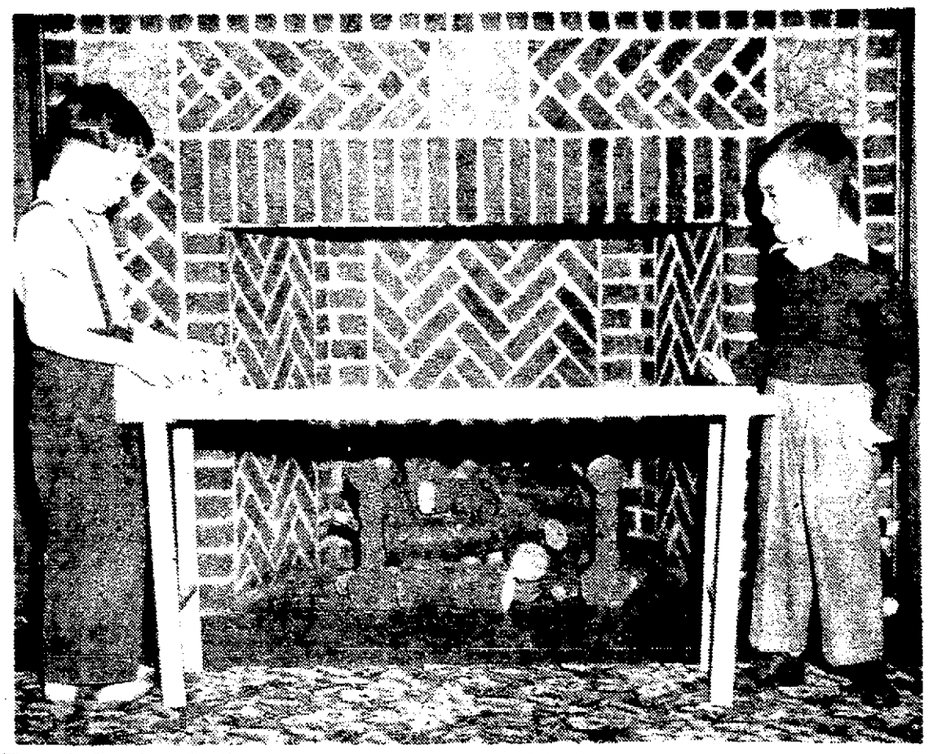
A day doesn't pass when the Sister's knowledge of child psychology isn't taxed in some manner. While there, I observed a particular instance.

A child had completed a paper squirrel and wanted to take it home. No one was to take his squirrel home until the following day when it was to be colored. But this persistent child insisted, and the sister finally consented. She explained her final consent in this manner:

"Tomorrow, when all the children are coloring their squirrels, this child won't have one. And the fact that she will be an outcast from the work of the day will be ample punishment for her original disobedience."

Almost all discipline problems are handled in this fashion, and for that reason Sister Firmina's class is an outstandingly well-behaved group.

The rudiments of religion are also taught in this Kiddy Kollege and Protestant children are admitted as well as Catholic. Most of the youngsters go on to complete their schooling through the entire curriculum at St. Peter's.



Kenneth Gremling, 75 Greenwood avenue, concentrates intently on his bowling form as Joseph Loris, 17 Pleasant street, acts as pin boy.

Little Ann Selby, 495 Crescent road, tries to make her squirrel hop, as George Pupola, 253 South Adams, and Coral Ann Garver, 495 Crescent road concentrate on watching her, and cutting out their own animals.

Raymond Baum presided at the organ for the program of nuptial music and selections were sung by the St. Peter's school choir. The ceremony was solemnized before an altar decorated with glads and mixed pompons, with a background of palms and lighted tapers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Bender home in Lexington. Seventy-five guests were in attendance. The table was decorated with carnations and pompons with the lighted tapers and wedding cake.

When the couple left on a trip the bride wore a green suit with brown and gold accessories. Upon their return they will reside at 300 Fairlawn avenue.

The bride is a graduate of Lexington high school and employed as a bookkeeper at the Richman Brothers company. Mr. Timmer, a graduate of St. Peter's high school, is an insurance inspector for Retail Credit company.

CANDLELIGHT CEREMONY SOLEMNIZED IN GALION

Miss Rosalind Kuenzli Becomes Bride of William E. Rittenour of Bucyrus.

GALION — A gown of white candlelight satin was chosen by Miss Rosalind Kuenzli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Kuenzli of Galion, when she became the bride of William "Billy" Elwood Rittenour, son of Mrs. Herman Rittenour of Bucyrus. The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. Philip E. Auer, in an open church service at Peace Lutheran, Sunday afternoon.

All white flowers were arranged in the beauty baskets at the altar which was illuminated by the light of tapers in candelabra. Pews for the family were marked by white satin bows, and the guests were ushered to their places by brothers of the bride and bridegroom, Robert Kuenzli jr., of Galion, and Herman Rittenour of Bucyrus. The altar boys were Norwood and James Neumann.

The nuptial music was played on the carillon by Mrs. R. M. Pounder.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown with a sweetheart neckline, and tiny buttons closing the tight fitting bodice in the back. The full skirt, gathered to heavy cording at the waistline, fell in a medium train. The bridal veil was caught to a seed pearl trimmed tiara. She wore her mother's pearl necklace and carried a handkerchief belonging to her maternal grandmother. Her white Bible, gift of the bridegroom, was topped with white rosebuds from which fell satin streamers.

Mrs. Robert S. Kuenzli jr., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an aqua crepe gown with matching headband and carried a bouquet of yellow mums.

James Rittenour of Bucyrus was his brother's best man.

Approximately 100 guests attended the reception at the parish house following the ceremony. Mrs. Irvin Roth and daughter, Miss LaDena Roth, Upper Sandusky, aunt and cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Francis Starner of Bucyrus, sister of the bridegroom, assisted in serving the guests. Mrs. Carl Roderick (Rosemary Kuenzli), twin sister of the bride, had charge of the guest book.

The couple is taking a honeymoon trip through the Smoky mountains. For traveling, the bride wore a gray suit with black accessories, and a corsage of roses.

Mr. Rittenour and his bride will be at home on Harding way east, Galion, after their wedding trip. He is employed at the Hercules Steel corporation and attended Bucyrus high school. He was with the United States Army in the South Pacific for three years.

The bride is employed in the personnel office at Hercules, and was graduated from Galion high school in 1944.

MRS. ROBERT MEHL

Mrs. Mehl to Serve As Ohio President of Garden Clubs

ASHLAND is proud of the newly-elected president of the Garden Club of Ohio, Inc., Mrs. Robert Mehl, of Countryside. Mrs. Mehl was elected early this fall at the annual meeting of the club at Fremont.

Originally president of the Garden Study club of Ashland, Mrs. Mehl then became regional vice president of the Garden club of Ohio, Inc., for the Mansfield area. Her next step was to become first vice-president, and this year she has attained presidency.

In her message in "Garden Greetings," the organizations official pamphlet, she mentioned the work of the Ashland club. She said:

"The Ashland Garden club, in conjunction with two other clubs, has undertaken the project of planting trees, shrubbery and flowers at the veteran's housing unit at Ashland college. Flowers were also planted around the Johnny Appleseed monument on Main street. Twelve letters were sent from the club to congressmen about the conservation legislation, and answers were received."

Mrs. Mehl's personal garden is somewhat of a show place. She has a large rose border and wild flowers and bulbs scattered throughout a small adjoining wood lot. The all-white garden is particularly striking. In the spring there are white grape hyacinths, daffodils and tulips, following through to the fall with white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Mehl is the inaugurator of gardening in her family. Originally from Columbus, she was graduated from O. S. U. and is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. She has lived in Ashland since 1946 where her husband is practicing dentistry. They have a six-year-old daughter, Rebecca.

Kuhlber of Ingoma, Pa., October 9, at the Avalon United Presbyterian church. The Rev. John Webster officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a purple crepe fashioned with a high neck line and long sleeves. An insert of fulness fell into soft pleats at the bottom of the skirt. She wore a silver halo about her head, trimmed with an orchid feather and veil which tied under the chin. Her shoulder corsage was of white gardenias.

Miss Lelias Elliott, roommate of the bride at Allegheny General hospital school of nursing, Pittsburgh, Pa., was her only attendant. She wore a garnet red crepe with black accessories. Her corsage was of white baby chrysanthemums.

David Kuhlber served as best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to the party. The table was centered with an arrangement of fall flowers and leaves surrounded by tall yellow tapers.

Wall Street Loafs Along At Low Rate

Market Prices Remain Steady

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market loafed along a narrowly irregular price route Saturday in a typical sleepy Saturday session.

The general undertone of the market was steady. Buying support appeared at fractionally lower levels and numerous issues were lifted a trifle above the previous close.

Many traders were away from Wall Street for the week-end and those who did show up weren't anxious to take an aggressive position.

Volume totaled around 300 000 shares. This was well above last Saturday's 190,000 shares, a five-year low, but nothing to start brokers dancing in the street.

Vanadium corporation was one of the few issues to step out of a fractional range. The stock rose around 3 points to a new 1948 peak.

Others higher most of the time included Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda Copper, De Pont, Eastman Kodak, U S Gypsum, and Paramount Pictures

Under mild pressure were J I. Case, National Distillers, American Smelting, International Nickel, Union Carbide, Nickel Plate, Firestone, and United Airlines.

HOLDS DOWN COSTS—Planned to fit a modest budget, this four-and-a-half room house has an expansible attic where two rooms and bath can be added. Designed by McMurray & Chirgotis, 968 Stuyvesant avenue, Union, N. J., as the Anita 108, the house covers 957 square feet exclusive of garage and porch. Club Plans Party

A Halloween party has been planned for the Tuesday night meeting of the Richland county senior 4-H club, Miss Mabel Spray, county home demonstration agent, announced. The meeting, starting at 8 p. m., will be at the home of Charles Clingan in Weller township.

HOROSCOPE

for Monday, October 18

MONDAY'S astrological forecast shows a most propitious opportunity for attaining high goals of ambition, constructive grasp of new ideas, unique developments in fresh fields of operation and achievement. Persist in efforts to develop these clever ideas. Firmness and precision should triumph in the long run. Novelty and originality thrive.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by an exciting and productive year in which the strange, unique and foreign figure with force and final success, but with little if any cooperation from desired sources. Have confidence in plans and purpose, however strange or fantastic the ideas and vision may be. Dare to keep to the unbeaten track, against obstacle and sneers. Ingenious performances ultimately flourish, perhaps in a spectacular manner.

A child born on this day, will be richly endowed with novel ideas and originality, creative and inventive, sustained by the courage, purpose and stability to carry on against opposition.

The goggle eyes of a chameleon focus separately on its prey.

Science's Wonderland

Versatile Plastics Offer Cradle to Grave Service

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

NEW YORK — (AP) — The wonderland of plastics now offers you a plastic life from cradle to grave.

Plastics touch almost every phase of life. Experts in the field say it is just getting really started.

That new baby can be brought home to a crib made of plywood with a resin adhesive. Plastic rattles and toys will amuse him. Later, when he tries his own amusement of pitching his food dish the dish won't break if it's a plastic one.

Plastics are at work in medicine. A plastic film, made from a protein in the blood, is used in brain operations to replace the lost lining of the brain. Cellophane has been used as blow-out patches to strengthen diseased-weakened walls of the aorta, one of the great arteries leading from the heart. Plastic tubes are used in artificial kidney machines, used to purify the blood in some diseases. Plastics find their way into surgical instruments.

Some of the new, unusual or improved uses of plastics went on display here at the third national plastics exposition.

There are plastic drinking glasses that won't "sweat." No more marring of furniture, the man says and no more coasters needed. The plastic glass has a sealed-in air space, like a thermos jug. Ice lasts longer in the drink.

There is a kitchen with nearly everything partly or entirely of plastics except plumbing. Walls ceiling, and floors had plastic tiles or resin paints. The finish on refrigerator and washing machine contained plastics. The curtains were made of plastic film.

PLASTIC PLATES

There are plastic plates, in colors, non-breakable, non-staining, but not yet self-cleaning.

Telephones are made of plastics in colors to suit your personality. Wool clothes are made with resins to combat shrinkage.

There are little plastic automobiles, scale models of '49 cars. One will soon be produced as a toy, running on a battery, with remote control steering it to left or right.

Strength, durability, flexibility, rot-resistance, shaping, and other advantages explain the rapid progress of plastics in many uses. They are at work in fabrics, bowling pins, furniture, clotheslines, garden hoses, hair brushes, false teeth, belts, window screens, machinery, fish-net floaters, evening slippers, relief maps, golf balls and hundreds of other products.

For the shipwrecked there is a salt water still that works under the sun's rays. You inflate a big plastic bag. Salt water put in a reservoir at the top drips down onto a special black bag inside the plastic balloon. The sun's rays, passing through the thin walls of the balloon strike the black bag and the light rays are turned into heat. Fresh water is steamed out, condenses on the inner walls of the balloon, and then collects in a special container at the bottom of the still. The black bag filters out the salt. On a sunny day, the still will supply several pints of drinking water.

With all the progress, horse-and-buggy days aren't forgotten. For horses, there's a plastic bit. It's lighter than metal ones, and on a winter day, dobbin doesn't feel like someone had slipped a chunk of ice into his mouth.

Adventurers Like Greece

ATHENS—(AP)—There are plenty of opportunities for adventure in Greece—if you are able to ride a mule, scale 3,000-foot mountains and dodge guerrilla bullets.

Observers of the United Nations special committee on the Balkans (UNSCOB) say it's only part of a day's work for them. The young men following Greek military operations against Gen. Markos Vafiadis' communist rank their lives almost every day to investigate border violations.

Observer teams frequently have been targets of guerrilla mortar and artillery fire in the border zone.

Three observers, a Chinese, a Briton and an American were wounded this summer. The American was hospitalized for a month. All three are back with their colleagues in the "hot spots" along the Albania, Yugoslav and Bulgarian borders.

UNSCOB'S "eyes and ears," as the observer groups are called, were organized last winter to observe and collect information on frontier violations, refugees, minorities, and later, childrens' abductions.

Tag Sellers Set Record

Despite intermittent rain, John Simpson Junior high school's Tag Day collections on the streets of Mansfield yesterday netted the band fund more than $1,015—the highest amount in the school's history of collections.

Band Director Don Tennant, pleased over the public's response, said "the rain might have dampened the students' spirits, but it certainly didn't affect our pocketbook."

More than 75 band members, majorettes and beginners took posts on virtually every downtown Mansfield street corner to collect money for the upkeep of the band.

Feature of the day-long collection was a specialty ensemble of five student musicians attired in German outfits who played at various busy intersections in the afternoon.

Principal Harry Dotson reported that last year's collection totaled $900 and this year's drive drew the "most generous response." If you weren't tagged by one of our musicians, he added, then you weren't out yesterday.

Senior Class Will Sponsor Parade, Fete

Halloween Festival Slated For Nov. 1

By MARGIE GOODMAN

Tom Swisher has great plans for the seniors this year. If he has anything to say about it, we'll be one of the best and longest-remembered classes ever to "hit" M. H. S.

For the first time the Senior class is sponsoring the Halloween celebration Nov. 1. We have a float committee, headed by Douglas Black, who is planning "the float to end all floats" and the Seniors are all asked to participate in an effort to urge organizations to enter the parade, sell tickets for the dance, and assist in judging. The proceeds from the dance will be given to the Children's Home.

On the necessary, but not particularly enjoyable, side of the senior activities is the collection of class dues. A representative is selected from each home room to collect two dollars from each student before December. This must be paid or you aren't allowed to graduate. That makes it rather compulsory.

Archery club has been reorganized again this year with Miss Marge Boles serving as advisor. Officers were elected at the first meeting. They are: Barbara Staples, president; Marian Watt, vice president, and Carolyn Cline, secretary-treasurer. Ten G. A. A. points will be given for each meeting attended.

October 30 is a date to write down in your appointment book 'cause that is the day the choir sponsors its annual carnival. Those of you who attended last year will remember the super-stupendous vaudeville show they put on and Martha Shiplet, chairman of the committee, promises to outdo even that last extravaganza. Those responsible for the success of the carnival are Harry Osbun, general chairman, with Marilyn Bell and Jean A. Robinson acting as co-chairmen.

Other chairmen are: food, Eugene Freiheit; construction of booths, Raymond Stretch and Johnny Corcoran; managing booths, Pat Jackson; bake sale, Dick Van Voorhis; advertising, Sally Todd; tickets, Ginger Brownfield; decorations, Diane Zerbach; prizes, Hank Copenhaver; bingo, Dick Butts; and waitresses, Betty Erickson.

Those of you who have never attended a choir carnival have lots to look forward to. Besides huge amounts of food, which I'm sure will entice a lot of people, there will be bingo, a fishpond, a fortune teller, wishing well, diverse concessions, dancing to Dick Butts' orchestra and all the excitement and bustle of everyone having a marvelous time.

'I Remember When . . .'

Old Recalls First Boys' Choir In City

This fall, Mansfield's Grace Episcopal church observes the 60th birthday of its beloved boys' choir—but not without the golden memories of those "first days" still deeply engraved on the hearts of the men who filed into the chancel many years ago for the first service.

One such member of that choir is Charles Old, 500 Parkview street, who will observe his 70th birthday next May. He is one of the six first choir "boys" (four of them Mansfielders) still living.

Other living members of the "old gang" are Marion T. Brinkerhoff, 55 Penn avenue; Atty. William F. Voegele, 380 Park avenue west; George Smith, 520 Lida street; Harry Martien of Cleveland, and Robert Brooker of Willard.

"That was the city's first boys' choir," Old recalls with a good measure of pride. "Prof. W. H. Pontius, who was supervisor of music in the public schools, organized it in the fall of 1888.

"Only six of the boys were members of the church — they were just told to report for choir practice—the others were picked out of the public schools by the professor."

Old related that members of the church so well favored the idea that they gave their time to calling on the families of the boys chosen for the choir to gain the parents' permission.

REV. HALDEN'S IDEA

"I really believe it was Rev. Halden's idea for the choir," Old continued. Rev. S. M. Haiden came to the pastorate in 1888. A year later, following the resignation of Rev. Halden, Rev. Joseph Fletcher carried on the idea until it grew into the established part of the church it occupies today.

As Old says, two "highlights of the succeeding choirs" are the well-known singer, Richard Maxwell, and Lloyd Balliett who was recognized in "top-flight vaudeville."

"At the time," Old recalls, "the church was on the Mansfield Public library site—had been there for 47 years. By now, a couple of thousand boys must have sung in the choirs there."

★ ★ ★

Old's family alone has contributed seven to the choir so far. Old and his four brothers sang in the early choirs, succeeded by Old's two sons, Harold and Paul, and now his grandson, Charles Old.

That first boys' choir was really a minor counterpart of the regular men's and women's choirs. Five men appeared with the choir when it was first organized. As the boys literally took over, the women were dropped and haven't appeared in the loft for the past 50 years.

There were no flowing robes for the first year.

"The gowns were made by the women of the parish and used for the first time at the Easter Sunday service in 1889," Old reminisced.

"We had good times, too," Old went on, "they took us on trips on a number of occasions. The first one was a 10-day camp at the lake in 1890—I'll never forget it."

Old was 17 before he dropped out of the choir, but he's never lost track of the "boys" who started it. As clearly as if it had been yesterday, he called off their names without a moment's hesitation.

Besides the forementioned members of the choir, the "originals" included: John Nelson, Charles Schreidt, Charles Shea, Roy Nixon, Charles Kennedy, Alfred Brooker, Rupert Cox, Charles Harris, Clyde Hardwidge and Frank Craig, all deceased. Also, the men of the choir, Charles Williams, W. L. Gaston, husband of the organist for the church at the time; L. P. Clark, Edwin Gadfield and E. G. Robinson.

League of Women Voters Winning Political Power

NEW YORK—(AP)—Some people say women talk too much.

But 83,000 women have talked sufficiently well to make themselves regarded as a powerful political force by both major parties.

They are the members of the National League of Women Voters, which has a few hundred men in its ranks. The league works to make American citizens informed and intelligent voters and to further legislation it thinks is required.

Politicians from ward heelers to presidential candidates feel the impact of the leaguers' talk —and many of them pay some heed.

Congressional candidates receive questionnaires asking them to state their minds on such questions as: What should be done to stop rising prices and prevent a depression? How do you stand on the progressive reduction of trade barriers by the United States? Local candidates are quizzed on local issues.

The league makes public their answers. Trying to by-pass a thorny question by not answering does a candidate no good.

The league brings rival candidates together for lively question-and-answer forums. It collects and publishes down to earth facts on national and local issues. The league is non-partisan and never backs any candidate. It simply states his stand.

SPREADS INFORMATION

The league spreads its information through local newspapers, radio and broadsides, distributed by mail, league members and girl scouts. Another method is friendly neighborly talk—over the back fence and in the grocery stores.

Leaguers are no haranguers, however. The average leaguer is youthful to middle-aged, intelligent, well educated and possessed of a fair amount of courtesy and tact. She seizes opportunities to present facts, but she doesn't rub them in.

"We have found that, for the most part, the Smiths and Joneses use good common sense in their votes when they see the whole of the picture," says the league's sparkling president, Anna Lord Strauss.

The league was fouded 28 years ago by Carrie Chapman Catt and her co-workers to help women equip themselves to use their newly acquired vote effectively. Today it concentrates as much on the men's vote as the women's.

Any man living in the United States can become a member by payment of the three dollar annual dues and joining the local league.

That Time's Here Again—Tigers Play Tygers

Ohio State Runs Over Indiana, 17 to 0

Visiting 11 Rates Nod In Game

By CHARLEY STINE

Something for which Mansfield has been waiting for 26 games may become a reality this week—a football victory over the mighty Massillon Tigers.

That long sought-for victory, if achieved, would become the No. 1 plum in Senior high and the city's all-time sports trophy case.

Not that the Tygers have more than an outside chance of achieving the coveted goal when the two teams clash at Arlin field Friday night. Senior high has been an in-and-out club while Massillon's record is as impressive as ever save for the last week's 14-0 defeat at the hands of Alliance.

The school which made Paul Brown famous was rated as No. 1 in the state in all polls to date and the whipping by upstart Alliance should make the Tigers even better. They will undoubtedly be smarting from it yet next Friday and determined to use Mansfield as a springboard back to the top.

EXPECT BIG CROWD

Nevertheless, all Mansfield once again has hopes that "this will be the year". About one third of the population will try to get into Arlin field to find out for themselves.

A crowd which will be far and away the largest ever to witness a sporting event in the city, will be on hand for the battle. Some 12,000 reserved seats have long been sold out and 300 standing room tickets have passed across the counters. Up to 2,000 of the SRO ducats will be sold by game time according to ticket manager George Sherman.

Friday's game will be the first meeting of the teams on Arlin field soil. Last year, the first for the new stadium, the game was played in Massillon before 21,000, an estimated 7,000 of which were Senior high fans.

SENIOR HEAVY

The Tyger faithful came home with the usual story in that one as Massillon pushed to a 27-0 victory. Small consolation, however, was the fact that the Richland countians were playing with sophomores and juniors while Massillon was senior top-heavy.

Massillon has a new coach and practically a whole new team now. Holding the reins is Chuck Mather, former Hamilton skipper who took over the Tigers this fall. He is well-known to local footballers, for he too, was responsible for a Mansfield defeat last year. His Hamilton Public eleven beat Senior high 19-7.

Fast Buckeye Drivers Race Here Today

Ohio's leading motor bike pilots will zoom over the Mansfield Motorcycle club's one-third mile track today in thhe state championship tourist trophy competition.

Some 50 machines are expected to churn up the oval which is located eight miles from Mansfield off Route 314. Racing over the oil-treated track will begin at 2 p. m. with time trials scheduled from 10 a. m. until noon. Dow Mitchell, club secretary, expects a crowd of over 2,000 persons.

The drivers will gun for division trophies and $1,000 in prize money. The trophies go to the winners in the novice, amateur and expert classes. Nine events are on the program, including two eliminations and a final in each division. Eliminations are listed for six laps with the finals going 10.

Two 1947 winners will be back, although both will race in the expert class this trip. Art Heck, Willard, won the expert title and Peg Liscano, the one-legged Galion ace, copped the amateur crown. Liscano has an artificial right leg.

Another ace is Harry Bellville, Marysville, holder of the Mansfield track record. He was an expert finafist in 1947 and is a strong threat today. Bellville will be presented a trophy today for his record time.

Admission is $1.00 with children under 12 being admitted free.

An Open Letter. Some Rumors and Elementary Stuff

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

From the Mail Bag:
Mr. Fred Tharp
Sports Editor
Dear Fred:

This morning I was in Defiance, Ohio, where I picked up a Ft. Wayne paper. While reading the sports page I discovered an item which I think might be of interest to your readers. The article is inclosed, it's the ranking of Indiana high school football teams. You'll note that Whiting is undefeated, and ranked second in the state.

Whiting had one game under their belt when they played —and defeated Mansfield. A one-game edge for a team of Whiting's caliber represented quite a handicap and now in the light of Whiting's present record, five consecutive wins against strong teams, it becomes apparent that our Tygers didn't do too badly against such strong competition—they didn't leave their football in the locker rooms that night.

The boys have played good football, fellows like Tom Weaver, Howie Tipper, Tommy Tucker and Joe Miller are giving Mansfield football fans a great team and certainly do not deserve some of the comments I heard following their loss to Whiting. Having a winning ball club is almost as much the responsibility of the local fans as it is of the coaches and players.

Now is the time for your readers to learn that that first game was lost to a mighty good ball club, one of Indiana's finest.

Sincerely,
FRED V. NICHOLS

SPORTS RUMORS continue to make good copy. . . . Paul Brown, Hal Newhouser, Ted Williams and Bill Veeck are prominent in the latest batch to leave the rumor factory. . . . Brown has oft-times been reported going back to Ohio State. . . . Now some of the writing gents have the Cleveland Brown coach going to Southern Cal. . . . Says Paul, "As far as I know, USC has a football coach. Frankly, I think Northern Ohio is a pretty good sports territory." . . . Williams, it is said, will go from Boston to Detroit for Newhouser, George Kell and a couple of lesser players. . . . Joe McCarthy, the Bosos boss, has never been particularly fond of temperamental stars. . . . For that reason he would probably welcome a Williams trade if he could get some help for the creaky Boston mound corps. . . . Veeck has made no plans to leave Cleveland, but he says, "Like anyone else, I'd sell my stock if I had a chance to get the money I'd want for it. I have received two or three offers. None has been high enough. It would take a real offer to interest me." . . . Bill holds 30 per cent of the Tribe stock, but he has said he wants to get out of baseball sometime and devote himself to projects for youth improvement. . . . As for Hank Greenberg taking over the club, the sport-shirted gent says, "He wants to own a major league club some day, but with him, location is all-important. For personal reasons, I think he has two or three other spots in the country in mind."

★ ★ ★

MANSFIELD'S half-century old grade school football program has some new innovations this season. . . . In its first few decades, the grade schoolers played tackle but the lads were then in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. . . . Merry Harry Mehock, the track coaching fellow, was in on the present style when Mansfield schools changed to a 6-3-3 setup some 20 years ago. . . . Then the teams started to be made up of fourth, fifth and sixth graders. . . . All the schools this year use the T-formation, operate a standard 6-2-2-1 defense and many of the clubs have uniforms. . . . A rule went into effect this year, that each of the teams must use, at least 22 players. . . . That means, roughly, 250 youngsters profiting. . . . This year the mode of play differs from the usual brand of "tap." . . . Each of the 11 players wore a flag sticking out of their belt in the back. . . . To bring "down" a ball-carrier the defensive team must grab the flags from the belt. . . . Harry says. "This new system gives the offense a chance to catch up with the defense. There will be more scoring and that helps the players and fans. The teams can now use line bucks to advantage as well as sweeps and passes." . . . Next year Mehock hopes to have two leagues in each elementary sport. . . . The football teams use shoulder blocks and the games are officiated by qualified adult officials. . . . Doctors donated their services to give all of the lads a physical examination.

Purdue 11 Makes Up Lost Time to Defeat Iowans

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers shook off their football miseries yesterday with a 20-13 victory over Iowa.

The Boilermakers, their Rose Bowl dreams blasted by Northwestern and Michigan after a heart-breaking loss to Notre Dame, finally got on the winning path in a rough and tumble scrap with the Hawkeyes.

The Boilermakers rushed to a 13-0 lead midway in the third period on Harry Szulborski's nine-yard dash and virtually clinched the game on Bob Demoss' punch from the one-foot mark in the fourth period for a 20-7 lead.

Iowa, which had made its only previous threat with a drive to the 16 early in the second period, scored on the second play of the fourth period on Ralph Doran's smash from the one-yard line.

The Hawks pulled up to 13-20 in the closing seconds when Al Dimarco tossed to Bob McKenzie for a 48-yard gain to the one and Sophomore Mearl Naber hit across on the next play.

The busy Demoss completed five of 10 passes for 139 yards. His chief assitant in the yardage business was Szulborski, who romped 103 yards in 23 carries.

Big Feature At Meeting

Those precious Mansfield-Massillon football tickets will be given away tomorrow night!

The Tyger booster club announced yesterday that four of the reserved seat ducats will be awarded to boosters attending Monday night's regular meeting at the school at 7:30.

The Tyger band will be the feature attraction of the evening while Coach Augie Morningstar will review last week's Springfield game and discuss a scouting report on Massillon.

Michigan Rips Out 28-0 Win

By FRANK KENESSON

ANN ARBOR — (AP) — Michigan's fabulous football powerhouse, grinding with no wasted motion in the second half, churned out an impressive 28 to 0 victory over Northwestern before an awed throng of 85,938 fans here yesterday as Sophomore Leo Koceski of Canonsburg, Pa., personally accounted for the first three touchdowns.

It was Michigan's 18th successive victory in an ever-growing string extending back to October of 1946, and put the Wolverines in the driver's seat in defending their Big Nine title.

Northwestern hadn't been beaten before, but the Wildcats, after making a terrific fight of it in the first half, collapsed under an avalanche of three Michigan touchdowns within a back-breaking space of less than 3½ minutes midway in the second half.

Michigan was in front 7-0 by virtue of Koceski's one-yard smash into the end zone in the dying seconds of the first period, a slant that capped a 33-yard march in seven running plays.

STOP TWO DRIVES

The clawing Cats stopped two Wolverine assaults in the shadow of their goal posts the first two times Michigan got possession of the ball in the third. Loren (Pee Wee) Day intercepted Chuck Ortmann's pass in the end zone after Michigan had reached the 5. And Northwestern's stout line turned back four thrusts a moment later to take the ball on downs on the 1.

Then Michigan pushed Northwestern right out of the ball game.

In quick succession Koceski caught Walt Teninga's 10-yard pass for a second Wolverine touchdown; George Sundheim fumbled the next kickoff and Ortmann hit Koceski with a 31-yard strike for another score; and Irv Wisniewski intercepted Don Burson's pass to set up another, Koceski fumbling the ball into the end zone, where Center Bob Erben outscrambled everybody for it to take credit for the touchdown.

Harry Allis, Michigan's big end, booted all four extra points.

That simply was all there was to it as Michigan hit back again and again for its third straight shutout victory.

ONE GOOD PERIOD

Northwestern was an able foe for one good period, the second, when Michigan fumbles kept the Wildcats in threatening position the entire 15 minutes.

But Michigan stood its ground to take back the ball on downs three times—on its 10, its 30, and its 24. And the Wildcats didn't threaten again.

So completely did the overpowering Michigan offense control the ball from the outset of the second half that Northwestern got the ball only four times and ran only 12 plays, three or them punts, before the Wolverines had the visitors snowed under the 28 to 0 count.

Michigan made 14 first downs to the Northwestern's eight and gained 342 yards running and passing against the Wildcats 159. The big Michigan defense line and its husky pair of linebackers, Dan Dworsky and Dick Kempthorn, limited Northwestern to 47 yards rushing all afternoon.

Fumbling Minnesota Club Nips Illini Late In Game

By MAURICE PUTNAM

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)— A seemingly impotent Minnesota football team suddenly found itself in the waning minutes of the final period and defeated Illinois, 6 to 0, yesterday.

For three periods and well into the final stanza the teams had battled virtually in midfield. Then a long pass from left halfback Dick Lawrence to End Vern Gagne set the Gophers on fire. The pass was good for 51 yards to the Illinois 22-yard line.

Fullback Frank Kuzma, who had entered the game just minutes before, hammered through center for ten yards and a first down. Another plunge, on a fake, netted him nine yards more. He was held to no gain on the next play but added two more yards to put the ball on the Illinois one-yard line for another first down. Quarterback Jim Malosky, on a sneak play, went over to give Minnesota its victory margin. End Gordon Soltau's kick hit the post.

SUBS IN THERE

Substitutes played the important roles in the triumph. None of the men involved in score-producing plays started the game.

A crowd of 62,066 jammed Memorial stadium for the game Once again the Gophers were beset by fumbles, some of them induced by the tackling of the Illinois men.

In the third period Illinois men recovered Minnesota bobbles on two occasions — both time on the Illinois 25-yard line In all, Minnesota fumbled nine times and lost the ball on seven of them. On the other hand the Gophers recovered both of the Illinois fumbles.

The Gopher victory march was the high spot of a game otherwise played chiefly between the 20-yard lines. Illinois effectively throttled the Gopher ground game and had better luck with their passing, completing ten of 22 attempts.

Navy Scores Late TD's But Sinks, 33-14

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Two touchdown passes in the last two minutes saved Navy from complete humiliation yesterday as Missouri's Tigers clawed their way to a 35-to-14 victory before about 22,000 fans in Babe Ruth stadium.

The Tigers scored once in each of the first three periods and added two touchdowns in the final for a 35-0 lead before Quarterback Bobby Horne came to life to pilot Navy's scores.

Missouri's aggressive line, led by center Bob Fuchs and an alert secondary, smothered Navy's offens until the last two minutes. Horne started pitching then, moving Navy 50 and 39 yards with his aerials. His scoring strikes were to Larry Treadwell from the 7 and to Jim Green from the 17.

California Bears Open Coast Loop Drive With Victory

BERKELEY, Calif. —(AP)— The California Bears opened their bid for the Pacific Coast conference championship yesterday with a 42 to 0 win over the Oregon State Beavers.

The shirt-sleeved crowd of 55,000 fans saw Lynn Waldorf's undefeated Bears rack up their fifth victory of the season—their first in the conference—with a powerful ground attack and a deceptive aerial game.

California blasted to its first touchdown late in the first period and turned the contest into a rout in the third period. They took the kickoff and pounded 80 yards to score.

Then after Oregon State gained six yards on three tries and punted, California put the ball into play on its 49. On the first play, Swaner galloped for the fourth touchdown.

Dick Cullom placekicking lineman had a perfect day with his toe, six boots and six conversions.

Hoosier Club Out Of Lead

By DALE BURGESS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — (AP)— Ohio State's Buckeyes ran over and around Indiana's linemen yesterday as if they were sacks of wet sawdust in a 17-0 victory. The loss knocked the Hoosiers out of a tie for first place in the Western conference.

Alex Verdova, Joe Whisler and Jim Clark ground out long gains and Quarterback Pandel Savic mixed in a few passes.

Indiana only once was inside Ohio State's 43-yard line and then only by about a foot. Every other time the Hoosiers got the ball, Ohio State's sharp pass defense and hard-charging line stopped Indiana before it got out of its own territory.

TWO IN FIRST

Ohio State scored two touchdowns in the first quarter, lost another in the second period because of a penalty, and was stopped on Indiana's 5 and 15-yard stripes on two other occasions.

The Buckeyes tallied the first time they got the ball. Whisler scored in his fourth straight game with a one-foot plunge at the end of a 63-yard march. Verdova contributed a 13-yard end run and caught a Savic pass for 14 yards.

Clark got Ohio State's second marker on the 10-yard climax run of a 58-yard Buckeye parade.

James Hague place-kicked both extra points. He place-kicked a field goal from the 11-yard mark as time was running out in the fourth quarter.

Ohio State's complete superiority was shown in the statistics. The Buckeyes made 20 first downs to Indiana's five and gained 247 yards by rushing to Indiana's 18.

STATISTICS	O. S	Ind.

Net yards gained rushing	247	18

LITTLE TO CHEER

A Hoosier homecoming crowd of 32,000 had little to cheer. Clark, Ohio State's wriggly left halfback, averaged more than five yards each time he carried the ball. Fullback Whisler picked up 52 yards in 14 plunges, and Rodney Swinehart, Clark's relief, got 41 yards in seven carries.

George Taliaferro, Indiana's workhorse halfback, accounted for all of his team's 94 yards in the air. He completed five of 10 passes attempted. Ohio State's Savic also hit receivers with five of 10, good for 74 yards.

Indiana gained all of its meager 18 yards by rushing in the first half.

BREAKING POINT

The thinnness of the Hoosier squad, which has made necessary 60-minute performances by key players, finally stretched to the breaking point in yesterday's game. It was fighting out of deep holes most of the afternoon while Coach Wesley Fesler was pouring fresh men into the Ohio State lineup and getting workmanlike efforts from all of them.

Only four men carried the ball for Indiana, while Ohio State sent ten carriers through and around the Hoosier line. Sub Quarterback George Wertz made 18 yards in three rushes for the Buckeyes' best ground average.

Tyger Harrier Win Streak Halts

Mansfield Senior high school's three-year cross country winning streak came to an abrupt halt Saturday morning in Akron.

Gunning for their 22nd consecutive victory in dual and triangular meets, the Tyger harriers finished second in a three-way meet over the Akron Goodyear course. Akron East, last year's state meet second placers, won the competition with 23 points. Senior high had 43 and Akron Garfield brought up the rear with 54.

Several of the Tygers turned in their best two-mile time of the season, but only Alan Poorman, Rudy Sheetz and Jerry Gerrell could crack the first ten Poorman finished fourth, Sheetz, sixth, and Gerrell, ninth. The latter pair had previously won 1948 races for the Bengals.

Akron East took the first two positions as Boxler came in first in 10 minutes, 21 seconds. Lovett was second, six seconds behind. J. Vargo, Akron Garfield, grabbed third in 10:33 and Poorman was clocked in 11:01.

The other Bengal thinclads — George Middlebrook and Jim Kibler—were 11th and 13th.

Coach Harry Mehock announced last night that the Senior high runners would not compete in any meets this week. It was the first triangular competition for the Mansfield team which had beaten Newark, Fremont Ross, Cleveland Rhodes and Columbus West in two-way races.

Mansfield—Poorman 4, Sheetz, 6; Gerrell 9, Middlebrook, 11, Kibler 13.
Akron Garfield—J. Vargo, 3, Bean, 7; Lick 12, Gibson, 14, E. Vargo 15.
Akron East—Boxler 1, Lovett, 2; Kontos, 5; Langley, 7, Oliver, 8.

Miami Wins Tough Test, 9 to 0

OXFORD, O.—(AP)— Miami university's classy Redskins outfought a stubborn Xavier team to win, 9-0, yesterday before 13,000 fans and remain undefeated in their last 14 outings.

After pass interceptions had nullified two first period touchdown drives, the Redskins began moving in the third heat and rang the bell on a pass from Mel Olix to Hal Paul. Olix, Miami's aerial ace, tossed a short one to Paul on the Xavier 32 and the fleet end outran the Musketeer secondary to score the game's only touchdown.

The Redskins, who tied with Xavier last year and with favored Virginia this season, took advantage of a poor Xavier kick early in the last quarter to add their final points.

With a first down on the Xavier 27, Miami moved to the six but a penalty pushed them back to the 21. Two line plays netted only four yards and Coach George Blackburn sent in his place-kicking specialist, Wid Miller, who booted a 17-yard field goal for Miami's final advantage.

Riding on the accurate passing of Olix, the Redskins drove inside Xavier's 20-yard line twice in the opening quarter but pass interceptions ended both threats.

Tough Notre Dame Wrecks Nebraska

Ronald Frey . . . Levi Shick
. . . Little shooter meets big shot.

OUTDOORS
With Mal Hartley

At an age when most boys are having trouble getting permission of their parents to use bee bee guns, Ronald Frey, 12, of Lexington is already making a name for himself as a trapshooter.

The picture above, taken last Sunday at the Ohio Sportsman's Gun club, shows young Frey in the company of a man who has already reached the top. He is Levi Shick, 39, of Bellefontaine, Class A champion in the Grand National at Vandalia with a perfect score of 200 out of 200.

Ronald probably won't equal that mark for a while—perhaps never. But his chances to move into championship ranks are definitely enhanced by his early start. Even at 12, Ronald can hold his own in nearly any company when it comes to trapshooting. His scires this season (he started shooting last year) include a 49 out of a possible 50.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Frey. Frey, Lexington farmer and bricklayer, is also a trapshooting enthusiast—as might be guessed from his son's activities. Ronald owns his own gun, a .12 gauge Winchester, which is nearly as tall as its owner.

Another youthful trapshooter in the Mansfield area is Gene Burgess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burgess of Loudonville. He placed in the Ohio Sportsman's Gun club shoot Sunday, and has had other successes.

Gene, who is 15 years old, was top man in an all-age shoot at the Mahoning Valley Gun club in Youngstown recently. He broke 81 birds out of a possible 100 to tie Dic Reese of Niles and won the event in a 50 target shoot-off.

At the Mansfield event he got 97 out of 100, good for a tie for second place and a spot on the team.

Just a Reminder—Duck season opens at noon, Oct. 29, and runs 30 days, up to and including Nov. 27. Ohio regulations prohibit duck shooting before sunrise, due to the belief of state conservation authorities that the practice is unwise where duck populations are skimpy.

Ohio can't be considered a good duck hunting state, even with a tug of imagination. But there are ducks in some places, and there are duck hunters. Ohio was 23rd in the sale of Federal duck stamps last year. That's not too good for a state which stands fifth in population—but it's not as bad as it might be.

The legal limit is four ducks a day and eight in possession. Also two Canada geens per day or in possession are permitted.

★

It's Br'er Rabbit who absorbs most of the hunting pressure among species of Ohio wildlife, according to figures released by the state's division of conservation.

The bunny, according to the division's statistics, absorbs 81 per cent of the hunting pressure, with pheasants next at 69.9 per cent.

Probably safest among the creatures of the field and streams is the badger. Hunting pressure on him is only 0.5 per cent, say conservationists.

Other "hunting pressure" figures given in the report are: fox squirrel, 48.1 per cent; gray squirrel, 31.3 per cent; red fox, 12.4 per cent; raccoon, 11.5 per cent; ducks, 9.1 per cent, with the same figure for woodchucks.

More than four-fifths of all Ohio hunters engage in rabbit hunting, say wildlife experts.

BEAR HOUND

LOADED FOR B'AR—When notional bear hound trials at Cadillac, Mich., were under way earlier this month, the bear did his part to make the event exciting.

The animal, chained at the end of the course, slipped his noose and and ambled off across the field.

The hound in the picture above was snapped as he and other dogs were closing in on Brum. The trials turned into a real honest-to-goodness bear hunt for a time.

No harm was done. The bear was recaptured, and was chained back to his post. The runaway went through the escapade in a good-natured spirit, apparently just trying to add to the fun.

The hounds, which seemed to like the hunt more than the trials, finally got down to business again.

ATHENS — (AP) — Ohio University yesterday announced discontinuance of intercollegiate wrestling, a varsity sport since 1918. Difficulty in arranging a schedule was given as the reason for abandoning the sport.

Irish Notch 21st Win By 44-13 Count

By RANDALL W. BLAKE

LINCOLN, Neb. —(AP)— Notre Dame slammed 80 yards from the opening kickoff for a touchdown yesterday, then buried Nebraska under a vicious onslaught that brought a 44-to-13 victory.

It was the 21st straight game without defeat for the Irish. A sellout crowd of near 38,000 watched.

From the time Terry Brennan went 12 yards on the first scrimmage play there was no question as to the outcome. Notre Dame was just too fast, big and alert for the Big Seven conference Huskers.

All that Nebraska had to offer was wrapped up in spread plays. These bothered the Irish enough to get Nebraska one first-half touchdown but Notre Dame soon solved them. The Irish had four touchdowns before Nebraska got its score.

FIRST FOUR SCORES

Here's how the Irish scored the first four touchdowns:

Emil Sitko went 14 yards wide around end to wind up the first 80-yard drive.

John Panelli rambled 70 yards behind grand blocking for another first period score.

Frank Tripucka passed 31 yards to sub end Bill Wightkin to end a second period drive of 75 yards.

Another Norte Dame touchdown opened the second half. This time it was for 66 yards with Sitko plunging four for the payoff.

Two more Irish touchdowns, one on Tripucka's third quarter pass to end Jim Martin and the other on Larry Coutre's 13-yard fourth period run sent the Notre Dame final count up to 44.

Ohio U., 37 to 7

ATHENS, — (AP) — Ed Zeon tossed three touchdown passes yesterday as Ohio university scored in every period to defeat Western Reserve, 37-7, in a Mid-American conference football game.

It was Ohio's first victory. The Bobcats' other touchdowns came on a pass interception and a 15-yard run by Dick Davis.

★

Wesleyan, 26-13

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Bob McFarland, 145-pound left halfback for the Ohio Wesleyan Bishops, led his team to a 26 to 13 gridiron victory over Case institute yesterday by scoring three touchdowns.

Usually noted for his passing, McFarland was forced by mud and rain to use a ground attack. His first two markers were on runs of 12 and eight yards, and in the final period he scampered 76 yards for another.

College Grid In Capsule Form

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK — (AP) — Michigan and Notre Dame, those twin giants of Midwestern football, won greater stature yesterday with lopsided triumphs.

The Wolverines shackled Northwestern so completely that the Evanston, Ill., outfit gained only 47 yards on the ground while losing, 28 to 0.

Meanwhile, Notre Dame toyed with Nebraska, 44 to 13. That made it 21 games in a row since the South Bend Irish suffered their last defeat. Notre Dame had four touchdowns in the bank before the Huskers, once proud rulers of the midlands, put their offense into gear.

TOPS BIG NINE

Michigan's triumph lifted that club to the top of the Big Nine standings with every indication that the Wolverines are there to stay. It also set up the possibility that some soundly walloped eleven will carry the conference's banner in the Rose Bowl game come Jan. 1.

The Wolverines appeared in the California extravaganza last New Year's Day and are denied a repeat appearance by league rules.

Indiana could have shared the Big Nine lead with Michigan save for the Hoosiers' unexpected 17-to-0 defeat by Ohio State in the Indiana homecoming game. Minnesota, Michigan's next foe, caught fire in the final period for a 6 to 0 conquest of Illinois and Purdue finally broke its chains, 20 to 13, with Iowa the victim.

Wisconsin was pushed aside by Yale, 17 to 7. It was the longest football trip ever taken by a Yale team and the change in scenery proved a boon to Levi Jackson, Eli halfback, who put on a one-man show.

N. C. HAS TOUGH ONE

North Carolina, voted the nation's best college team last week, had to hustle to maintain that position, finally breaking lose in the final half to dump North Carolina State, 14 to 0. That put the Tar Heels on top in the Southern conference.

Maryland, erstwhile loop leader, was dislodged by Duke, 13 to 12. It was the first time the Maryland team had been scored on this fall.

Georgia Tech moved out front in the neighboring Southeast circuit, trouncing Auburn with ease, 27 to 0. However, a free-for-all 300 spectators and players caused almost as much commotion. It was finally halted when a game official ordered the band to play the national anthem.

Easy victories by Vanderbilt, Tulane and Tennessee also marked southeastern action. Tulane upended Mississippi, defending champion, 20 to 7, while Vanderbilt mastered Kentucky, 26 to 7. In a game involving a pair of one-time greats, the Volunteers moved to a 21-to-6 verdict over Alabama.

Missouri followed its upset of Southern Methodist with a smooth 35-to-14 victory over luckless Navy. The Tigers turn next to Big Seven competition, where they are co-favorites with Oklahoma and Kansas. The Sooners banged Kansas State, 42 to 0, while the Kansans hurried home from last night's win over George Washington. Iowa State celebrated its homecoming with an 18 to 7 verdict over Colorado.

JUST MISSES

Columbia, famed for its yearly upsets, almost registered another, bowing to Pennsylvania, 20 to 14, when a Quaker pass was ruled complete on the three-yard line with only seconds to play. The Penns banged over in one play for the deciding marker.

Army trimmed Harvard, 20 to 7, and Cornell took Syracuse, 34 to 7, with both victors remaining in the unbeaten group. For the first time in 76 years of trying Rutgers knocked off Princeton on the latters' home field, 22 to 6. It was the third straight defeat for the Tigers, who also lost their goal posts.

Penn State crushed West Virginia, 37 to 7, and Brown spilled Holy Cross, 14 to 6. Pittsburgh won from Marquette, 21 to 7, for its second straight, the longest Pitt winning streak since 1945.

TIES UP SCOTT

Texas tied up Arkansas' Clyde Scott long enough to beat the Razorbacks, 14 to 6, and Texas Christian overcame an early 14-point deficit to down the Texas Aggies, 27 to 14.

California and Oregon moved forward in the Pacific Coast race while Stanford registered an amazing triumph over UCLA, 34 to 14. The Indians got 21 of their points in a blazing final quarter.

Oregon won its third straight conference decision, edging past Southern California, 8 to 7. California, generally regarded as the loop's best, whipped Oregon State, 42 to 0. Washington State knocked off Washington, 10 to 0, in a minor upset.

★

Princes, 19-6

WESTERVILLE — (AP) — Heidelberg's Student Princes spoiled the Otterbein college football homecoming yesterday, 19-6.

Heidelberg scored twice in the second quarter, with Ray Baker going over each time. Otterbein marched from its 27 to score in the third quarter, but an intercepted pass set up Vic Cipriano's 13-yard touchdown sprint to clinch Heidelberg's victory.

★

BeeGee's, 48-6

BOWLING GREEN—(AP)—Undefeated Bowling Green university scored its fourth straight football win yesterday by blasting Morris Harvey's Golden Eagles, 48-6. It was the Beegees' home opener. They led, 41-0 at halftime.

Bowling Green set the game's tempo by scoring on the third play after it got the ball for the first time. Fullback Jack Woodland raced 35 yards for the touchdown.

Midway in the first period, righthalf Howard Schaetzke of Toledo knifed over from the one-yard line to cap a 62-yard drive. A minute later, Schaetzke recovered Miles Trout's fumble on the Virginians' 39. Woodland reeled off 33 yards and then bucked over.

Bowling Green added 20 more points in the second period. Lefthalf Max Minnich set up the fourth score on a 73-yard punt return. He scored on a six-yard pass from Russ Maples. Morris Harvey fumbles set up the Beegee's other touchdowns in the period.

The Bowling Green reserves played the entire second half, outscoring the Eagles, 7-6. A Beegee fumble on their 33 in the fourth period paved the way for the visitors' only score. Quarterback Bob Dawson tossed a touchdown pass to halfback Harden Scragg after one line play failed to gain.

★

Denison, 27-0

WOOSTER — (AP) — Denison college marched toward its second undefeated season yesterday by spoiling Wooster's homecoming celebration with a 27 to 0 victory over the Scots.

It was Denison's fourth triumph and Wooster's third loss. A hard running attack in the final period pushed over a pair of Denison touchdowns after a stubborn Scot defense had limited the victors to 14 points in the first three quarters.

A 19-yard forward pass, Ed Rupp to Bill Hart, in the end zone resulted in Denison's first marker after the Scots fumbled on their own 15 on the game's first play from scrimmage. Bill Wehr recovered for the visitors.

Denison scored again the third period on a 14-yard end run by Ed Rupp.

Two 16-yard runs, by Bill Fleitz and Jerry Cowan, accounted for winners' final two touchdowns in the last period. Bob Phillips connected on three of four extra point attempts for Denison.

★

Capital, 13-6

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Capital university's football team won its first game of the season yesterday, defeating Marietta, 13-6.

The home club marched 59 yards to score after taking the opening kickoff. Gene Shade placekicked the extra point — and that was the game.

Marietta moved from its 29 to score in seven plays in the third quarter, with Fullback Chet Waterman plunging over from the five. Bob Kennedy returned an intercepted pass 20 yards for the final score.

★

Muskingum, 20-7

ADA —(AP)— Muskingum defeated Ohio Northern, 20-7, on a sloppy field before a homecoming crowd of 3,000.

The Polar Bears' only touchdown came in the first quarter on a four-yard pass from Arden Robserson to Chuck Heck. The Muskies scored in the second quarter when Dick Mohler went over from the two-foot line, and again late in the second quarter when Steve Marklin intercepted a pass and stepped 82 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown.

The Muskies' third touchdown came in the fourth period on a drive from the Northern 35, Earl Jeffers going over for the marker.

The loss took Northern from the undefeated class. It was the Muskies' fourth Ohio conference win.

Citation Adds More Scalps In Great Year of Racing

NEW YORK—(AP)—Citation, wonder horse of the American turf, added the scalps of a pair of foreign horses to his collection yesterday as he bounced to an easy victory in the $111,700 Empire City International gold cup at Belmont Park.

The spectacular Calumet farm champion, cheered on by a crowd of 43,887 persons who backed him down at 3 to 20, won just as Jockey Eddie Arcaro pleased, swinging home by two lengths over C. V. Whitney's Phalanx. Carolyn A. was third.

Far back in seventh place was the Irish-bred Nathoo, while the Belgian champion, Bayeux, was last in the field of nine after almost being left at the start.

Citation took charge of the situation midway down the back stretch in the mile and five-eighths gallop. He put on a brief spurt to shake clear of Maine Chance farm's pace-setting Ace Admiral, and was just coasting at the end.

It was a $75,600 coast for the great son of Bull Lea-Hydroplane 2nd, and boosted his total earnings to $820,250. This shot him past stablemate Armed in the list of the world's money-winning horses, and into second place right back of Stymie. Armed has $773,700, and Stymie tops the bunch with $911,335.

This year alone, Citation has collected the hitherto unheard-of sum of $664,570, much of it gleaned from the triple crown championship, yesterday's event, and the Belmont Jockey club gold cup two weeks ago.

Steady Lloyd Mangrum Takes Open Golf Lead

GLENDALE, Calif.—(AP)—Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, playing the steadiest sort of golf, shot back into the lead in the $13,000 Glendale open golf tournament at the three-quarter mark yesterday.

One over at the turn, Mangrum shaved off three strokes on the back nine for a 70, two under par, and a 54-hole total of 207.
